

Angry Aldermen on Wrong End of Secrecy Move

Aldermen yesterday angrily found themselves on the wrong end of secrecy. "There's something very funny about this," Ald. Austin Curtis said, when council received from the retail merchants' group of the Chamber of Commerce a letter endorsing a draft sign bylaw. "I don't think any member of council has seen it (the draft) yet. Why has it been kept a secret from council?" "I think the building department is going out trying to sell this bylaw behind our backs, and I don't like it!" "I haven't seen it. I think Ald. Curtis is perfectly right," said Ald. Arthur Dowell, and several others agreed. Council asked for copies of the draft and a progress report from the public works committee. Actually, the draft endorsed by the retail merchants and sought now by council is believed to have been rejected in closed-door sessions of a special committee, and another is believed to be in course of preparation. A first submission was rejected by public works committee after sign companies strongly opposed it. Public works committee then instructed assistant city engieer Roderick Clack to prepare a new draft in consultation with the special committee of Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean — absent yesterday — and sign company representatives. A second submission by Mr. Clack—the one the retail merchants apparently heard about — was debated by the special committee some weeks ago, but was not then forwarded to public works committee, leading to the belief that it was not acceptable to the sign companies.

Lincoln's Story Tugs Emotions

CHICAGO—Richard M. Nixon in his presidential nomination acceptance speech, recalled that someone asked Abraham Lincoln if he thought God was on his side.

He gave Lincoln's answer: "My concern is not whether God is on our side but whether we are on God's side."

The applause came like the bursting of a dam—the emotional summit of the convention.

Socred Chiefs Split In Stormy Session

OTTAWA — Social Credit's national convention here sailed through a stormy opening day Thursday with squabbles over procedure, an apparent split between the movement's leaders and some delegates, and contentious debates.

Reporters were barred from the convention in the morning session when delegates from eight provinces reversed a decision of leaders that the press be allowed to attend. This ruling was later rescinded.

Orvis Kennedy of Edmonton, president of Alberta Social Credit League and chairman of the policy and constitution discussion, told reporters: "We want to let the crackpots blow off steam."

TECUMSEH, Ont. (CP)—Three teenage children were taken to hospital in nearby Windsor Thursday night after being removed from their home by police and Children's Aid Society officials.

Provincial police constable Gus Newby said the children's mother told him they had been confined since 1949.

Dr. C. J. Hammond of Windsor said the children—two girls and a boy—were "certainly in bad shape."

Officials at Windsor's Grace Hospital said all three were suffering from malnutrition.

Provincial police sergeant Jack Hatch of Essex said neighbors had not seen the children for at least seven years. He added that they had not been attended by a doctor for at least five years and had not attended school.

Const. Newby said the mother told him she has six children dating back to 1948 when she was divorced by her first husband.

Moved to Windsor from Detroit in 1949 because it was difficult to find housing for a large family and told the landlord she had only three children. When she moved here a year later she said the same thing and continued to confine them. The constable said he was told the three confined children—the girls, aged 18 and 13, and the boy, 14—were all retarded in growth and unable to talk or walk properly. He said police found no locks and the children had the run of the house, a playroom with toys and proper clothes.

Police were notified after the boy went to the home of Forrest Richards, three houses away while his mother was out.

"He said he was 14 but he seemed very small for that age," said Mr. Richards.

The Richards family called police when they didn't recognize the boy and he told them he lived in a house where they thought only two other children were staying.

Lumumba Fears Massacres

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba said Thursday "the situation in the Congo might bring us into another world war."

"There may be massive massacres" unless Belgian troops leave quickly, he said.

He seeks Canadian help in Montreal and Ottawa today.

DAG HAMMARSKJÖLD

Congolese Crowds Wildly Welcome Hammarskjöld

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — Dag Hammarskjöld sailed across the Congo River in a white launch to Leopoldville Thursday and received a tremendous welcome from hundreds of cheering Congolese.

Diplomatic quarters said the United Nations secretary-general brought with him an ambitious partnership plan calling for United Nations troops to remain in the new republic for at least five years.

FROM BELGIUM
Hammarskjöld, who flew from Belgium, immediately began a study of the Congo's economic and social dilemma.

He met President Joseph Kasavubu, Maj. Gen. Carl Von Horn, commander of UN troops in the Congo, and UN assistant secretary-general Ralph Bunche.

DISTURBING EVENT
Even as he arrived, disturbing developments took place in Katanga province, which has seceded from the 29-day-old republic.

Katanga Premier Moïse Tshombe warned Opposition Leader Prosper Mwanza that his walkout from the provincial parliament Wednesday could lead to "severe criminal punishment" for subversion.

PROVOKE TROUBLE
Mwanza and his followers walked out, Tshombe said, to provoke trouble and provide an excuse for UN intervention in Katanga.

Tshombe is sending a three-man delegation to place before the UN and Belgium the area's case for independence.

He wants no UN troops. One of Hammarskjöld's most pressing problems is the threatened breakdown of the Congo economy. Virtually all taxation has ceased.

INFANT NATION
Congolese are turning to Hammarskjöld to solve the infant nation's troubles.

Highly-placed diplomatic sources said UN officials have abandoned an earlier plan to recommend a UN trusteeship for the Congo because of objections from Congolese leaders.

NEW PLANS
Hammarskjöld's new plan calls for small-scale domestic production leading to an African trade pattern in place of a Congo tied to Western Europe. It also calls for civil service supervised by the UN

Cold War Projects All in His Hands

CHICAGO (UPI) — Republican nominee Richard Nixon launched his campaign for the presidency last night by proposing creation of a powerful new striking force to battle Communism on the economic front.

Accepting the presidential nomination in a victory-for-freedom speech, Nixon called for consolidation of all non-military cold war projects into one big program that would be under his direct supervision if he wins the White House.

Nixon told the wildly cheering 27th Republican national convention that the new striking force would encompass such programs as foreign aid, information activities, and the exchange of people with Communist nations. It would be separate from military programs.

Nixon delivered a blunt declaration to Soviet Premier

Nikita Khrushchev that "his grandchildren will live under freedom."

Nixon summoned all Americans to join him in meeting the challenge of international communism with a worldwide campaign of "positive strategy" that seeks to build a sound world and refuses to bow to Red threats.

"When Mr. Khrushchev says our grandchildren will live under Communism, let us say his grandchildren will live under freedom," he declared as the huge, gaily-decorated convention hall erupted in thunderous cheers.

'Symphony of Cynicism'

Nixon also delivered a slashing attack on the Democrats, accusing presidential nominee John Kennedy and his backers of displaying at the Democratic national convention a "symphony of political cynicism" that is out of step with the times.

Nixon accepted the nomination after the convention roared its approval of his choice of vice-presidential running mate — handsome diplomat Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. Lodge also received a thunderous ovation.

The 1,331 delegates and the packed galleries also erupted with cheers when convention chairman Charles Halleck read a telegram from President Eisenhower extending his heartiest congratulations to "Dick and Cabot"—the new titular heads of the Republican party.

Eisenhower said he was confident the candidates would defeat Democrats Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson in the November election because of their "wisdom" and government experience. But he warned they face a tough fight.

Nixon had already told the convention he would campaign in every state. Lodge said he was ready to carry the banner "anywhere, anytime."

Nixon emphasized in his speech that the major task confronting the next president would be to meet the Communist challenge in the economic field, where Russia and its satellites pose as champions of peace.

It is in this field, he said, that the United States must make an all-out effort.

'Your Combined Wisdom'

In this connection, Eisenhower told Nixon and Lodge that "your combined wisdom and knowledge of the affairs of government, both at home and abroad, will be a telling factor in the campaign that lies ahead."

"That campaign will not be easy—indeed, it will be a struggle right down to election day," the president said. "But I am confident that you will attract to the cause of maintaining good government a large majority of the independent voters and even a great many discerning Democrats."

Lodge accepted the nomination with a warning that the 1960 election will be held in the face of a "death struggle" with Communism requiring the most able, experienced man in the White House.

The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations since 1953 outlined this foreign policy:

● To continue and strengthen the military power which guarantees that no nation will ever dare attack.

● To improve the "kind of community we have in America" so the world will know it practices what it preaches on education, care for the aged, health and opportunities for youth.

● Progress in human rights, so a world four-fifths non-white will recognize the existence of justice in America.

World Is Dangerous

"The world is dangerous because small groups of men have acquired control of enormous resources and seek to put them wholeheartedly at the service of Communism—a conspiratorial cult which teaches them that they must take over the world."

"When it becomes obvious to them—as I believe it nas—that attempts to do so by military force will bring about their own devastation, they resort to threats, hate propaganda and midnight treachery."

He hailed Nixon as uniquely experienced in government, with particular emphasis on foreign affairs. The vice-president, he said, is "tough-minded" and "does not get rattled."

"Thus, we could in theory

Pills End Unhappy Life

She Was Shunned for Killing Her Child

PORTLAND (AP)—The troubled life of Jada Z. Kader ended Tuesday night in a drab apartment where she lived under an assumed name. Her identity became known Thursday.

Eight years ago, Mrs. Baker, then 21, told police "a dirty old man" had kidnapped her three-year-old daughter, Sherrie. Soon, though, her four-year-old daughter told police she watched as her mother strangled Sherrie and pushed her body into a well-like sump. It was found there.

"But mommy," Vickie told her mother, "I had to tell them the truth."
Mrs. Kader denied this was the truth. She offered many stories, both before her trial and during it, as to how Sherrie died. Sometimes she said it was an accident. Sometimes she said Vickie hit her. Once she said her stepfather had killed the child.

But in the hot summer of 1952, in a room jammed with curious, unfriendly people, Jada heard a state circuit court jury say she was guilty of manslaughter. She wore bobbysox and no makeup. Tears streamed down her youthful, freckled face.

Judge Frank J. Lonergan sentenced her to not more than 15 years in prison.

There was no clear explanation for the killing. Some said Jada, who had no husband for her children, was distressed because Sherrie cried so much.

A year ago she was paroled. Tuesday night she was found dead, the victim of sleeping pills.

WINNIPEG—Mrs. Ken Hall says that if she and her husband lose a legal fight to retain a child placed in their care by the Children's Aid Society, they will let him go "even though it will break our hearts."

Five-year-old Bobby was placed in the Hallas home on a temporary basis when he was nine months old, one of about 40 children the couple has cared for under an arrangement with the Children's Aid. Most of the children stayed about a year or a year and a half.

However, during Bobby's long stay, the couple became attached to him.

Manitoba law requires that when a child such as Bobby is placed for adoption in a permanent home, the parents must be of the same religion as the child. Bobby is a Roman Catholic and the Hallases are Protestants.

VANCOUVER—Elizabeth Clarke, 49, a nurse who turned over the proceeds of a hit-parade song, "Bluebird on Your Window Sill," to a children's hospital, is dead.

Should Lake Users Pay?

IMPOSITION of gate fees at publicly-owned parks, bathing beaches and similar resorts financed by taxes should be avoided wherever possible, but that does not mean that free entry should be inflexible policy. People have to pay to visit zoos and other attractions running up high maintenance costs, even though under municipal ownership.

In the circumstances which have arisen at Elk and Beaver Lake this summer perhaps an entrance fee system would be a fair and reasonable alternative to another raid on the taxes of Victoria and Saanich. These increasingly popular swimming places are going to cost this year a good deal more money than the two municipal councils thought would be enough. If public patronage continues to grow as it has done in the last few years the demand will be higher next summer and still higher in the years to follow.

Numerous as they are, the people who use the lakes represent only a small proportion of those who have to foot the bill. It seems not unreasonable to ask them for a token contribution towards the cost of providing for their own enjoyment. If the cost burden were equally borne maybe some other practicable way of financing the lakes could be worked out, but as conditions are the two of the municipalities are paying the full shot for a great many free riders. Alderman Ramsay made a strong point when he protested that the people of Oak Bay and Esquimalt have unlimited access to the lakes without their respective councils having to contribute a cent towards upkeep.

Charging fees for use of the facilities might not remedy that situation completely—unless the fees were more than a token—but would at least help Victoria and Saanich out of their present difficulty.

The President's Golf

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S golf has been mentioned so often it is not surprising it has found its way into Soviet newspapers. Ever since the U-2 incident and Mr. Khrushchev's spurge of invective against the president, tales of him being on the fairways when some crisis arises have been frequent. Few Russians know what golf is, but the idea is to discredit the president by implying that he plays games instead of attending to business.

Mr. Eisenhower does play a lot of golf, although were it not that a president's every move is reported to the last detail much of this would go unnoticed. The emphasis is probably overdone, even if it seems to many Canadians that no other national leader takes so much time off for a sporting recreation. Recently the Liberal leader of the opposition pointed a critical finger at Mr. Eisenhower for his fondness for the fairways, drawing thereby a rebuke from the Ottawa Journal deploring this "regrettable lapse in Mr. Pearson's sense of taste and effective diplomacy."

The president's golf is likely to be a useful antidote to his strains of office, however. Mr. Eisenhower's health is not of the best and he has survived several bouts of serious illness which might have caused a lesser man to throw up the sponge entirely. His dedication to the ideals of his office are beyond reproach, and his efforts for world peace in the last phase of his presidency, unfortunately not successful, are particularly to his credit in view of his health.

Golf, in any case, is not necessarily an escape from reality. With Mr. Eisenhower it probably follows from doctor's orders, to give him time to think and plan while benefiting from an outdoor activity. It is not tournament golf he plays and so his score won't matter. His mind is free even while travelling the fairways to dwell quietly on crucial international affairs and come to decisions.

In any case he will soon now leave the White House, which he has enriched by his presence as a president of great individual integrity. He will have earned the right then to play more golf, this time without criticism. Perhaps we should remember that possibly it is his golf that has kept him alive and enabled him to carry on amid the perplexing burdens of his great office.

Toward a Saner World

THERE is hope yet that the world may find its way out of the maze of conflicting ideals that threaten its very existence. Proof of this came but a few short hours ago with word from Paris that Milady's skirts would be shortened and waists "swallowed up."

In the explosive light of this veritable bombshell the import of the Republican nomination convention, the activities of the UN in the Congo and the parting words of Canadian prime ministers and premiers paled to insignificance.

Can news editors around the world—those stalwart men who with keen insight and professional knowledge daily balance the varying light and shade of what is or what is not important to their readers—be wrong for placing this Parisian tid-bit on their front pages, shunting other items reporting death, mayhem, threats of war and financial ruin to places of lesser consequence? Or are they right?

Can this be the first indication that the world is in the very process of re-balancing itself, bearing a promise that things as they are are about to be placed in their right perspective?

Note with care the sociological significance of the wording of the devastating communique which will affect the lives of millions on both sides of the iron curtain: "A folksy or down-to-earth touch comes in with knit toboggan caps topped with a wool pom-pom and coats with ribbed turtle necks. That they are teamed up with mink and sable does not seem to matter."

A more profound statement has seldom, if ever, been voiced.

For the infidel, Austin O'Malley once said: "We smile at the women who are eagerly following the fashions in dress whilst we are eagerly following the fashions in thought."

O'Malley had a point.

Interpreting the News

Cuban Barter Deals

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign Editor

NO matter what the political complexions of Fidel Castro and his chief lieutenants currently in charge of Cuba, there are few who believe that any great numbers of the Cuban people themselves can be persuaded to "go Communist."

But events of the last week erased any doubt there might have been that the Cuban economy already has "gone Communist." An American in Cuba gloomily surveying the situation there predicted that most if not all American property will have been seized by the government by next summer.

The stream of long-time American residents in Cuba returning to the United States has been under way for months. And now in their places are coming the Iron Curtain technicians and advisers as Cuba switches to Russian oil, Russian fertilizer, Czechoslovak machines and other items formerly supplied by the United States.

Those who profess to see a difference between Cuba economically controlled by Communism but inhabited by a people who resist it as an ideology, use two main arguments.

They say the Cuban would reject the discipline imposed by Communism, and that, regardless of outward appearances, he is inwardly devout.

The fallacy of the argument is suggested by the fate of Hungary and other satellite states where Communist regimes never have depended upon majority approval.

However, it is the economic side which permits no argument and forecasts hard times ahead for the Cuban people. Recently concluded agreements with Russia, Red China and Communist satellites primarily have been barter deals with only 20 per cent cash involved.

In return for sugar, Cuba has been promised Russian oil and technical assistance, Polish textile machinery and chemical equipment and Chinese rice, soybeans and textiles. Such an arrangement provides no dollars with which to buy other needed goods, including necessary food supplies not included in the barter deal.

LEANING ON THE ROOF OF THE WORLD

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I THINK it was Claudette Colbert, who could present a pretty attractive specimen of her own, who said that it matters more what's in a woman's face than what's on it. A mere man could never guess this could be so, living as he does in 1960, but I suppose Claudette's is a valid rule for masculine countenance.

For the past ten minutes I have been staring hard at the face of Richard Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate across the line. Actually at eleven of his faces, all strung out in a line. My initial response was of sympathy, for one face in the paper at a time is plenty for any man. By a decree before which he was powerless yours truly appears every morn, as you know; but at least he can present the same one in succession. Custom may stale it but the years don't wither it; self-protection sees to that.

But here are nigh on a dozen of Nixon's faces: dour, daft, laughing and lugubrious, chilly and cheery. They are all as nature intended them, presumably, without benefit of the make-up Miss Colbert seemingly had in mind, and so the question is what's in them. I am wishing I were an expert in physiognomy. I am wishing also there was a layout of eleven of John Kennedy's faces—albeit each of them will have other two—so I could make some comparison.

Offhand and speaking from memory I suppose Mr. Kennedy is more handsome than Mr. Nixon, or perhaps he's just more photogenic. And these Nixon specimens may not show him at his best; most of them seem a bit truculent-like. If they are recent shots this may be excusable. Mr. Nixon is about to engage in the struggle of his life with Mr. Kennedy.

The text accompanying his eleven faces—which rather throws one off any independent judgment, albeit secretly I am relieved by this—speaks of their forthcoming battle as being between two young Goliaths. The boy who slew the original Goliath never had greater incentive. The glittering presidential office is a prize beyond price.

Nixon, I read, is a bare-knuckled scrapper, but I gather that Kennedy is no party-waist either. There will be plenty of "political disfigurement" before the voters go to the polls in November. The word political in this context is comforting; it removes any fear that the faces will be disturbed to any material extent, except perhaps that one of them will be gloomier on election night than it was on election morn. By then the tale of what's in the respective faces will have been told.

Dickens said of a friend that his visage was not exactly a letter of recommendation, but for Messrs. Nixon and Kennedy their faces, perhaps, will be vital.

For the winner there will be, also, the assurance that his face will assume all sorts of guises before he is through, some of them quite unknown to him until he sees them in the newspapers. One supposes that a politician, like a movie star, grows reconciled to his image appearing in the public prints. If Mr. Nixon is the victor in this homeric struggle between two young Goliaths his countenance will appear not eleven times but eleven hundred times while he sits in the White House. Even a movie star can't match a presidential face; it becomes the most photographed of his nation.

And by the time his years of office are ended a president's face has disclosed all its secrets. By then there's no need to wonder what might be in it. Indeed the cartoonists will have shown there's far more in it than any president ever dreamed.

Common Sense Vs. Bravado

Safety Is a Personal Thing

(From The Royal Bank of Canada Monthly Letter)

IN a world where international discussion is on the level of hydrogen bombs it is difficult to focus attention on personal survival in the home, at work, and at play. Yet the danger of death and disablement resulting from everyday accidents is real and immediate—and every person can do something about it.

Safety is a personal thing. The very simplicity of this fact makes it necessary to repeat it often. Most accidents are caused by impatience, and all these accidents can be prevented.

There is no immunity from danger: the thing to know is how to meet it. They are unfortunate people who imagine that life can be wholly secure and certain. Man has been living on the earth for perhaps a quarter million years, and during almost all of that time his life has been one continual struggle to keep himself alive and to bring up his children.

Self-preservation is an instinct in all animals. It dominates the bird that alights on your bird bath just as it does the antelope that tremblingly approaches an African water hole and furtively drinks. A few seconds of inattention may mean that the bird falls prey to a cat, or that the antelope is killed by a lion. Nature holds all creatures accountable for their involuntary as well as their voluntary behavior, and man is no exception. Instinct alone will not save us, although it does wonders. Under pressure of necessity it has the big advantage of not stopping to deliberate: it acts. But instinct should not be our last defence. All that we can do to meet danger should be planned in advance. This is a personal responsibility from which we cannot escape.

It is not enough to put a guard around the physical hazards. We must put a guard around our thinking also. Consider our emotions. Even if the conduct of other people has been the cause of our emotion, it is really we ourselves who have created the resulting danger by the way in which we have reacted. When we see a car weaving dangerously on the highway we don't say "that car is behaving dangerously," but "that is a dangerous driver." Our best guards are between our ears.

These guards must be kept alert. Safety cannot be taught in two or three lessons and then neglected. Some safety measures can be made into rituals which we follow without conscious thought, but we need to be on the lookout for little deviations which introduce new dangers.

He is a silly person who raises his feeling of courage by the ill-considered acceptance of any and every risk. Most of us have to guard against this temptation. We may be driven by inner compulsions to indulge in dangerous practices. A feeling of inferiority may break out in a determination not to let another driver pass us on the road. We may know ourselves to be timid, and do rash things to show our friends that we are not cowardly. The dread of humiliation is a strong force propelling us to do unwise and dangerous things.

We are subject to a constant conflict between self-realization and self-preservation. A soldier wants to preserve his life, but performs daringly because he wishes to be respected by his comrades. A woman inclined to put on weight will diet dangerously to keep her figure slim. Physical damage and mental upset are often the result.

What shall we do in the face of emotional urges that drive us into danger? Pay attention to the alarm bell; appraise the risks; take the measures necessary to eliminate the danger, or at least to minimize it. As Shakespeare put it in Twelfth Night: some people are wise enough so that they can play the fool—they know how far they can go in dangerous situations. The time to be afraid is before the thing happens. A wholesome fear will make us attentive to safety measures, and when we have taken these precautions our minds will be clear to cope with the situation.

But we cannot allow carelessness to paralyze us. If we wait always until the outcome of our movements is certain, we will never move. We must know how to take chances intelligently. There are times to take risks; there are times when we must take risks; but these should commend themselves to the rational man as being worth the chance.

Irrational fear returns injury with compound interest. Fear of being told he has a disease prevents a man from visiting a doctor; fear of death prevents a man from making a will; fear of a noise kept the diarist Pepys shivering under the bedclothes while he imagined his gold was being stolen. We can't go far in life if we row with one oar in the water and the other on the shore.

A Canadian Car

Accent on Utility

(From The Calgary Albertan)

THE United Auto Workers' Union, in its brief to the Canadian government concerning the declining position of the industry in this country made a number of suggestions of dubious value. Among them were the setting up of a royal commission—surely an impractical idea if the union wants any real help—and, of course, the usual request for the dropping of the 7½ per cent federal sales tax.

But one other suggestion in the UAW brief was definitely intriguing and certainly deserves more publicity and closer scrutiny. The UAW claims that the Canadian auto industry could produce cars designed for Canadian needs at prices which would be competitive with imported models. These would not be copies of American "compact" cars, which, admirable as they are, are still not competitive with foreign imports.

From the Scriptures

Not with might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.—Zachariah 4:6.

Another sort of panic terror is that in which the victim has no clear notion of any definite danger. This anxiety neurosis feeds upon itself, makes existence miserable, and frequently shortens life. It is an old saying that if gravesites told the truth, nine out of ten of them would bear a line to this effect: "This man's life was shortened several years by the fear of bad developments, most of which never occurred."

Fear, then, while being a healthy safety device when kept within bounds, can in itself become a menace to self-preservation if allowed to run wild.

Most accidents may be avoided or prevented by the exercise of ordinary common sense. There are people who profess to scoff at safety measures. Some drivers scorn the "stop, look, listen" signs at level crossings. Some home workshop people read only so far as to learn how to start and stop a power tool. Some office workers go probing around a stalled electric typewriter with a metal paper knife.

Education in safety begins with study of responsibility—responsibility for preservation of our own lives and the lives of others. It doesn't cease with stopping and looking and listening—it goes on to think. People who refuse to think about safety are setting the stage for tragedy.

The pity of it is that dully ignorant or actively careless people do not harm themselves alone. There is no such thing as an isolated human being. Our highways and our waterways are dotted with the bodies of men and women and children who were the victims of foolhardy people.

Laws are not enough to preserve society. The desire for safety is the background from which has sprung some ninety per cent of our criminal law. The Roman law said: "The safety of the people is the supreme law." But until we desire to live safely the law cannot be effective.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

RADIO being much older and therefore senior to TV, it is reluctant to admit that TV has got anything it hasn't got. But lately you will notice one little trick that radio is copying from TV, and that is the "alternate" sponsor and the semi-alternate sponsor, and the semi-demi-alternate sponsor.

For years, radio has been open and above board with its sponsors. It gives them their innings before and after a program, with occasional interruptions for a word from our sponsor.

But when TV came up with its five and six sponsors one after the other, so that just as the villain was about to strike the blow the film is interrupted first by our sponsor, then by our alternate sponsor, then the station break, then our semi-alternate sponsor, and finally our semi-demi-alternate sponsor—a whole procession of them, so that you had almost forgotten what the villain was about to do—it seems radio could no longer hold out in its pride of seniority.

Now, especially on the rural radio stations, disc jockeys no longer wait for the pop record to end, but half way through it, break in for a brief word from our sponsor. Thus you get sponsors before, during and after a record.

It is pure TV technique. (Copyright: Canada Wide)

Letters to the Editor

For Cleaner Air

As a native Victorian, and annual visitor, I am repeatedly dismayed by the apparently uncontrolled air pollution in the downtown and harbor areas of the city. Approaching from Port Angeles, the pall of smoke can be seen blowing across the city, and unfortunately most of the worst offenders seem to be located to windward of the residential areas.

Their identity is easy to determine. One example is the tall brick chimney, near the Dominion Hotel, that welcomes each day by pouring black smoke into the air over the town.

Surely the time has come to limit these social nuisances. May you continue your editorial campaign for cleaner air over Victoria.

License Salmon Fishermen

Just had Jim Tang's article (July 21) brought to my attention and would like to write in defence of the tourists.

Each summer there are items in the papers about the traileries taking tons of fish home, etc, yet the tourist bureau cries for us to be good to them.

Instead of accusing the tourist of depleting the salmon, why not go after the government. There isn't one in our camp that wouldn't be happy to pay for a fishing licence, and have thought it ridiculous that the sportsmen didn't have to have one for salt water fishing.

Also a limited amount of cans wouldn't hurt them either because not one of them takes back a ton of salmon as quoted. Some don't take any back and don't even eat it; they give it away. If anyone did get 200 salmon, that would only average 1 1/2 fish a day for their length of stay.

Would also like to mention that the commercial licence fee of $1 is certainly ridiculous. Any Canadian can get a licence and go out and bring in all the salmon they want and sell them, many of those having jobs with good pay.

The commercial licence should certainly be more and every sports fisherman pay a licence fee also, non-residents and Canadians. Then there would be some money to do something about the depletion of our salmon.

Federal Low-Cost Loan Fund

Mayor, Reeves Back Proposal Despite UBCM Policy Clash

Greater Victoria municipal leaders yesterday endorsed Premier Bennett's low-cost loan fund suggestion to the federal government, although in doing so they departed from B.C. municipalities' unanimously-approved finance policy.

The premier proposed that Ottawa set up a special fund from which municipalities, school boards and hospitals could borrow at 2 or 3 per cent interest. Mayor Percy Scurrell and Reeves George Chatterton of Saanich and George Murdoch of Oak Bay supported the idea.

Policy of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, however, is "that assisted borrowing should be restricted to guaranteed loans," and that the guarantee should be federal rather than provincial.

UBCM reasoning was that low-interest loans to municipalities would be a form of "variable and unpredictable" subsidization, "and at the same time would be a direct incentive to municipalities to seek relief through borrowing rather than through prudent administration."

Conciliatory on A-Test Talks

Mikoyan Sparks Hope

LONDON (Reuters)—Government officials are guardedly optimistic that an East-West agreement to ban nuclear tests may yet be salvaged from the renewed cold war.

They based their hope on two main developments this week:

1. An encouraging statement in the Soviet Journal of International Affairs by First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

2. Advances in the 21-month-old Geneva talks among the three nuclear powers for a permanent test ban.

Mikoyan's article helped to curb speculation that Russia intends to walk out of the Geneva conference as it did last month from the 10-nation disarmament talks.

The deputy premier wrote: "In our opinion, one should continue negotiations, try to reach an agreement and abstain from resuming tests till the negotiations come to an end."

British officials are making a close study of Mikoyan's article. It appears far more moderate than Premier Khrushchev's letter last week-end to Prime Minister Macmillan.

In the letter, Khrushchev accused the Western powers of not wanting disarmament and trying to deceive world opinion.

There is no sign yet that Khrushchev is abandoning his refusal to do business with the United States as long as Eisenhower is in office.

Iranian Recognition of Israel Turns Arab World Against Her

CAIRO (Reuters)—The National Assembly of the United Arab Republic called a special session yesterday as storm clouds gathered in the Arab world over Iran's diplomatic recognition of Israel.

King Hussein of Jordan sent a special message to the Shah of Iran calling on him to suspend dealings with Israel.

It was understood that all Arab League countries may break off relations unless the recognition is withdrawn.

Filth Menaces New York, Garbage Strike Goes On

NEW YORK (AP)—Sanitation men angrily shouted down back-to-work proposals Thursday as a two-day strike paralyzed trash collections in the 315 square miles of New York City.

Refuse was piling up at 8,000 tons a day, and the city faced a health menace compounded of mounting filth and midsummer heat.

Margin Drop Lifts Prices At New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — The federal reserve bank's reduction in margin requirements from 90 per cent to 70 per cent sparked a higher stock market, giving the list its second gain in 14 sessions.

While the initial response to the margin cut was enthusiastic, many brokers remained cautious, insisting some further strong incentive probably will be needed for a sustained rise on volume.

Closing prices were well below the best levels set in the initial flurry of buying, but individual changes at the close ran to 2 or 3 points in a long list of issues and the averages, too, showed respectable improvement.

Turnover was the best in almost three weeks totaling 3,020,000 shares, compared with 2,560,000 on Wednesday.

Electronics were among the best performers with gains running to 7 in International Business Machines, 5 in Texas Instruments and 3 in Amp, Inc., Collins Radio, Beckman, Litton and Zenith.

Steels showed gains of 1 1/2 in U.S. Steel, 1 1/2 in Republic, 3 in Youngstown.

Motor improvement ranged around 1 1/2 points in Chrysler and Ford, 1 1/2 in General Motors.

Eastman rose 2 1/2, Du Pont a point in the chemicals. Vending Machines were in favor with gains of 2 1/2 in Vendo, 3 in Universal Match and 3 in ABC Vending. Polaroid soared nearly 8 points.

But B.C. Will Check

No Shortage Of Lead, Zinc

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

Mines Minister Ken Kiernan thinks there must be some thing wrong with the statement in the Commons by Alvin Hamilton, Minister of Northern Affairs at Ottawa, that Consolidated Mining and Smelting might have to import foreign lead and zinc to keep its Trail smelters going after 1963 or 1964.

"It looks like a case of misinterpretation of the facts," said Minister Kiernan. "We believe B.C. does have ample lead and zinc reserves to keep the big Trail smelters going for quite a number of years, but our mines department is making an immediate study to check the situation."

In the Commons debate Mr. Hamilton said that unless the new railway to Great Slave Lake was constructed quickly to allow Cominco to ship lead-zinc concentrates from its huge new deposits at Pine Point, the smelters at Trail might have to be fed by imported lead and zinc. He said this might happen by 1963.

The news came as a shock to mining officials in B.C., and to shareholders of Consolidated Mining and Smelting, who have always been of the belief that the lead-zinc reserves at the Sullivan mine at Kimberley were holding up well.

Sullivan, the world's largest lead-zinc producer has given over 80,000,000 tons of ore to the Trail smelters and has been for many years the chief source of raw material.

At the same time, Consolidated Mining and Smelting has not been in the habit of estimating the reserves at the giant mine.

Mr. Kiernan noted that at present Consolidated Mining and Smelting was spending $20,000,000 on the construction of a new iron and steel industry at Kimberley which would extract the iron ore from the tailings of the Sullivan mine.

"In addition to its Sullivan source, Consolidated Mining and Smelting has other properties in British Columbia, and purchases B.C. ore from other mining companies as well," said the minister.

Mr. Kiernan expressed the view that the Commons statements were made as an argument of the importance of building the Great Slave railway — a project with which we are in full agreement — but he declined to accept as a fact Mr. Hamilton's statement that B.C. lead and zinc reserves could not keep the Trail smelters going for many more years.

Bids totalling $3,247,925 were accepted yesterday by the B.C. government for 273,756 acres of oil and gas lands in the "hot" area around Fort Nelson.

Leading oil companies competed keenly for what looked like the choice parcels, and Mines and Oil Minister Kenneth Kiernan said the results were highly gratifying, and indicative of the importance attached by the oil industry to recent discoveries in the north-eastern corner of British Columbia.

Top price for a single parcel was bid by Shell Oil Company of Canada. It paid a bonus of $758,998 for parcel 306, consisting of 48,549 acres about 115 miles northwest of Fort Nelson on the Liard River.

"This is pure wildcat acreage," said Mr. Kiernan, "and the Shell company's bid, amounting to $15.75 an acre, must be regarded as extremely satisfactory."

Second highest bid was made for a drilling permit on parcel 312, about 70 miles south of Fort Nelson at the Bucking Horse and Pocket River. British American Oil Company bid $579,611, and undertook to drill a well to gain a permit on 8,000 acres.

Three other wildcat parcels were taken by an exploration team composed of British American, Shell and Mobil. They bid $301,162 for parcel 308, $151,162 for parcel 307, and $126,262 for parcel 309.

Another parcel in the same area — number 310 — went to Imperial Oil for $110,067. Phillips Oil paid $265,300 for parcel 311; Standard Oil of Canada, $103,107 for parcel 313; and Sun Oil, $110,000 for parcel 332.

A larger supply of short-term money was available this week and this caused a second in-succeion, weekly drop in the Bank of Canada discount rate. It fell from last week's 3.44 per cent to 3.17 per cent, the lowest it has been since June 16, when it was 2.96 per cent.

The lower rate brings the Canadian short-term money market into closer line with that in the United States.

number of leading Canadian mining companies. In reports issued yesterday Noranda, Hudson's Bay Mining, Kerr-Addison and Dome Mines increased their profits, while only McIntyre Porcupine failed to do better than in the corresponding period of 1959.

Noranda Mines net profit was $6,151,000 ($1.37 a share) against $1.29 a share a year ago.

Dome Mines made $866,674 (45 cents a share) against $829,143 (43 cents) a year ago.

Kerr-Addison Gold made $2,756,195 (58 cents a share) against $2,605,714 (55 cents).

McIntyre Porcupine earnings were $54,921 (41 cents a share) against $1,136,640 (49 cents).

SIX-FOLD ADVANCE

A six-fold increase in net profits is recorded by Trans Mountain Oil Pipeline for the first half of 1960.

Net profit for the half year to June 30 was $2,305,000 (31 cents a share) against $397,000 (5 cents) in the first half of 1959.

Average daily deliveries rose from 90,766 barrels to 125,595 barrels.

In the first half of 1959 Washington refineries took only 28.71 per cent of the Trans Mountain deliveries, whereas this year they have taken 42.17 per cent.

CH. SALES RISE

Canadian Industries Limited in the first half of 1960 increased sales by 16 per cent and net profit by 27 per cent from the corresponding period of 1959.

Net profit was $4,492,000 (51 cents a share) against $3,537,000 (40 cents) and consolidated sales were $91,500,000 against $78,600,000.

Prices of polyester fibre, polythene and paints were all higher, while sales of explosives and blasting agents were well maintained.

Bit of Old Arizona

At least one garden in Victoria is like a little bit of old Arizona with this unusual eight-spiked blooming Yucca plant. Yuccas grow in some city gardens but it is rare to see such a perfect clump of blooms. Plant, which is seven years old but has bloomed only once before, is admired by Mrs. Margaret McVie, in garden of J. F. Abbott, 302 Uganda. (Colonist photo.)

Victorian Sentenced At Shawnigan Lake

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—William Edward Elshaw, 1985 Rockland, Victoria, was sentenced to four months in jail here yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and theft. A 17-year-old Victoria juvenile who was with him pleaded guilty to the same charge and was remanded to Aug. 3 for a probation report and sentencing. Elshaw was arrested after being seen in a stolen car with about $40 of goods taken

Heat of Fire Repels Men

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Foresters kept a worried watch Thursday on a violent forest fire that was so hot men could not approach within 500 feet of it. Assistant forester Norman McKee of the Kamloops forest district, a veteran fire fighter, said the fire is about 30 miles south of here was "the most violent fire I've ever seen."

RCAF Joins Fight

Two large RCAF Piasecki helicopters and two Otter amphibian aircraft have been thrown into the fight against the 380 forest fires blazing in southeastern British Columbia. The four aircraft, due to leave Vancouver for Kamloops and Nelson at first light today, were offered the beleaguered B.C. Forest Service following personal negotiations in Ottawa between Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes.

The two helicopters will be used to carry men and equipment quickly into remote areas where lightning fires are occurring hourly. The Otters will do general transportation work.

One helicopter and one Otter will be sent to each of the Kamloops and Nelson forest districts.

The aircraft are based with the air search and rescue squadron at Sea Island and are under the overall command of Air Commodore G. G. Truscott.

Finals Set For Today

City playgrounds tennis finals will be played off this afternoon starting at 1:30 p.m. at Central Park.

Need for further details of cost estimates almost halted a hearing yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission on an application by the Greater Victoria Water District to increase its rates outside the borders of Greater Victoria proper.

First briefs placed before the hearing came from Ronald Upward and J. G. Heggie, commissioner and corporation clerk respectively of the water district.

Mr. Heggie's brief gave the figure $46,718 as the water board's estimate of the portion of fixed and operating expenditures that should be shouldered by the outside districts.

PUC commissioner A. B. Jackson noted that in its original application for a rate increase this figure had been about $60,000.

HIGHER RATE
Since the expressed reason for the requested higher rate was to meet increased costs and to provide a "fair return," Mr. Jackson and acting chairman Percy George said they thought it imperative to have details of the costs before any decision could be reached.

However, as no one present objected, the hearing went on. Mr. Upward's brief, more general in nature, noted that there had been no change in rural water rates from 1930 to 1954; that for 40 years the population had held constant and the water supply had been adequate.

COSTS MOUNTED
In recent years, however, population and consequent need for water supply had grown tremendously, and with these costs had mounted.

Andrew J. Cottyn, president of the Langford Chamber of Commerce, presented a brief from that organization, pointing out that he himself did not use the product of the water board.

The chamber's letter asked why water rates should go up at a time of increased unemployment and job insecurity.

Water users, the chamber said, felt that the proposed rate was far in excess of that charged in Saanich, and they also thought they were not getting the same amount of water as they used to get.

Mr. Cottyn also referred to the Sooke Lake-Goldstream tunnel, saying if the tunnel was necessary then surely the increased volume of water it would provide would pay for its construction.

Mr. Cottyn also referred to timber sold by the board off the watershed, saying he could find no reference to this revenue in figures submitted by water district spokesmen.

COSTS NOT INCLUDED
Mr. Upward replied that costs were not included in figures at present; only figures for preparatory work already done.

As for the logging operation, income had varied from year to year and any profit had been turned back into the water district. "It's been the only way we could get money without borrowing."

Mr. Cottyn suggested that logging activities should be kept separate from those of the water district—another company set up to handle them, if necessary.

"We do keep the two separate," said Mr. Upward, "with two complete sets of books. We have built 85 miles of roads in the watershed, and most of the timber we've sold came off the roads. Now we have a checkbook of good roads for logging in the future."

cluding a large number from Quebec where retiring national leader Solon Low said Social Credit had a larger paid up membership than in any other province including the Socred strongholds of Alberta and B.C.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett publicly disagreed with B.C. League president Noel Murphy over reasons for the defeat of the 19 Socred members in the 1958 federal election. Mr. Murphy said it was because Social Credit had the temerity to attack the financial system. But, said the premier, Social Credit no longer needs to attack anyone. Social Credit should not be against the financial system but should say: "We'll make the financial system work."

In the debate over methods of electing officers Mr. Low ruled that nominations could not come from the floor. Nominations must be made to the nominating committee on signed forms.

Although the chairman of the nominating committee protested that his group would present only one name for each office Mr. Low ruled that the matter was not debatable. A new policy statement, approved in principle, pledges the association will strive to make "the individual part of government" and achieve a life of peace, security, prosperity, for Canadians "with every opportunity for full enjoyment, tolerance vice and anarchy."

Legal Technicalities Cloud Sandown Issue

By TERRY HAMMOND

Controversy over the planned switch to Vancouver of Sandown Racetrack's 14-day meet came out of the clubhouse here yesterday but local punters couldn't spot the front-runners for a cloud of legal technicalities.

The Randall brothers' (Bill, Jack and Bob) Ascot Jockey Club, which owns Sandown, was in the lead at the quarter when the proposed transfer was barred July 22, but indignant Victoria turf devotees came up fast on the outside to kill the early bid with a barrage of protests to the B.C. Racing Commission.

The racing commission inched to the fore at the three-quarter pole with a public hearing here yesterday but not even the stewards could pick a leader at seven furlongs.

The Victoria Hotel Association emerged at the hearing as a dark horse threat when it challenged the authority of the commission. After the venue of a race meet was set forth in the B.C. Horseracing Regulation Act.

And Ascot spokesman Bill Randall upset the form charts when he rose at the hearing to offer Sandown and its charter to all comers for $200,000.

But at the hearing's end there appeared to be no takers at the $200,000 window.

Racing commission chairman Glen McDonald said the fate of Vancouver Island horse racing in the form of the Sept. 17 to Oct. 10 Sandown meet would be made known "as soon as possible—probably sometime next week."

He said yesterday's hearing left the commission with these items to consider:

(1) Has the commission the authority to change the location of a horse race meet established by statute?

(2) Has the commission the power to deny the holder of a race meet charter the privilege of moving it to a different track?

(3) What recommendation it should make to the cabinet after it has learned the answers to these questions.

The Ascot spokesman said last year's meet at Sandown lost $5,704 and that the best way for Victorians to ensure the continuity of racing here is for them to buy the track.

He said his price was based on $125,000 for buildings, $25,000 for the charter and $50,000 for the land.

Most comprehensive of eight briefs placed before the commission was that submitted by city lawyer G. A. Lauder on behalf of Victoria hotels.

Mr. Lauder quoted portions of the Horseracing Regulation Act which establish Sandown as a track at which 14 days of racing may be held each year and told the commission "this ... is the wording of an act of the legislature of this province and the wording of this legislation can only be changed further by an act of our provincial legislature.

"There is no power in the commission to change an act of parliament—there is no power to recommend to the (cabinet) a change in the location of racing meets."

"In fact there is no power in this commission to deal with the location of race meetings."

Shipping horses here was a big factor, he stated, and costs are higher in Victoria.

"It would mean just so many more would go home in the hole."

He said the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices yesterday's hearing was held, should get behind a movement designed to have the provincial government lift the 10½ per cent tax which it levies on the pari-mutuel handle.

Until the tax is lifted, he stated, Sandown "cannot survive."

Bob Shanks, a Victoria saddlery owner who also submitted a brief, said that in naming horse transportation costs as a factor "a small red herring is being drawn across the trail."

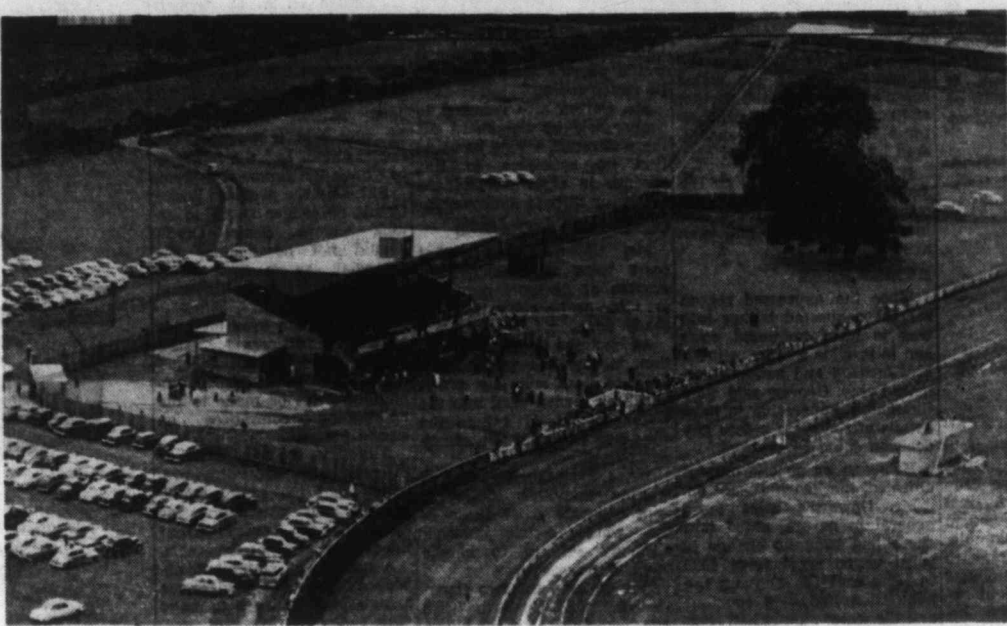

Such costs, he charged, are "negligible" in relation to the year-round costs of feeding and stabling a race horse.

He said he had already stocked much of the equipment with which to meet the needs of persons running horses at Sandown and said he is "not prepared to accept a hardship thrust upon us unnecessarily."

Proposal to switch the Sandown meet to Vancouver this late in the year was termed "fickle in the extreme" by M. R. Eaton, spokesman for hotel and motel operators in Sidney, nearest community to the track.

He said business at the Sandown meet "has shown steady growth for the past five years—and this year it looks like the best yet."

Sidney businessmen would probably be prepared to donate a purse for at least one race during the meet and would volunteer their services as track attendants.

SALE PRICE IS $200,000 FOR SANDOWN PARK, SHOWN ABOVE.

Vancouver Club Clinches Inter-City Lacrosse Lead

NEW WESTMINSTER—Vancouver clinched its first Inter-City Lacrosse League title in 15 years last night, putting on a final-quarter rally to edge second-place New Westminster, 10-8.

Victory also meant a bye into the final of the league playoffs for the Vancouver club, which still has two games to play against Victoria next week. New Westminster will meet either Nanaimo or Victoria in the semi-finals.

Vancouver led, 2-1, at the end of the first quarter last night, but New Westminster, led by Cliff Sepka, tied it at 6-6 going into the final 15 minutes. However, the speedy Vancouver club ran away for four goals to wrap up the title.

Bill Barbour scored four goals and set up one to pace Vancouver. Sepka scored three goals for New Westminster and Mike Gates, one of three juniors called up for the game, got two.

Goalies Stan Joseph of Vancouver and Les Norman of New Westminster, running neck and neck in league statistics, each turned in fine games. Norman blocked 26 shots, while Joseph handled 19.

Each squad was assessed 14 minutes in penalties and each scored once with the man advantage. Vancouver also scored once in the first period while playing a man short.

Mid-Island Pony Team Refuses To Play Prelim at Moses Lake

By JIM TAYLOR

Thirty Pony Leaguers are standing on the sidelines today, hoping their league executives will stop arguing and let them play baseball.

While the youngsters wait, the feud between Duncan and Mid-Island League executives rages hotter by the hour as they fight over which club will join Victoria as B.C.'s representatives in regional playoffs next week at Moses Lake, Wash.

Protests were flying by wire and telephone between Duncan, Chelanus, Victoria and regional headquarters in Walla Walla, Wash., but at press time last night no headway had been made.

Latest development was the blunt refusal of the Mid-Island League to take its team to Moses Lake along with Duncan and Victoria, and play a preliminary game with Duncan there to see which club would continue with Victoria into the tournament proper starting Tuesday.

The Duncan League started the squabble by protesting to Walla Walla over a poor schedule in last week's tournament in Victoria. The city club won the double-loss elimination tournament and Mid-Island finished second, although Duncan won more games than either of them.

This protest was upheld, and regional headquarters ordered a best-of-three series between Duncan and Mid-Island to pick the second-place team. Mid-Island refused. "If Duncan wants it that badly, they can have it," said manager Al Woodley.

TAKE ALL THREE

After more telegrams, the second decision, in essence, was that they won second place in a tournament where the draw had been decided beforehand, and that, Duncan's upheld protest notwithstanding, as far as they were concerned they were the club to join Victoria in the tournament.

Frank Coles of Victoria, who directed the tournament, was another in favor of the Walla Walla ruling, and bemoaned the fact that the Mid-Island boys have never been informed officially about the trouble that is brewing. In answer to a question he said he thought if the boys were asked, they would undoubtedly agree to a playoff.

Pony League was named after the initials of its slogan, "Protect Our Nation's Youth."

At the moment, the boys of the Mid-Island all-stars are being "protected" right out of baseball.

John Fraser Eliminated

TORONTO (CP)—John Fraser of Victoria, a top-seeded player in the Ontario junior tennis championships, was eliminated in a semi-final upset Thursday.

Fraser lost to fourth-seeded Brian Flood of London, Ont., 6-2, 6-3 in the junior men's class. Flood, 16-year-old western Ontario junior champion, meets Montreal's Claude Savaria in the final today.

Fraser was luckier; however, in the junior men's doubles semi-final, where he teamed with Frank Wodzicki of Toronto to defeat Cam Dalgleish of Edmonton and Al Davis of Calgary, 6-2, 6-4.

Fraser and Wodzicki meet Savaria and Dennis Crotty of Montreal in the finals today.

Piersall Plays It Safe

NEW YORK—Outfielder Jim Piersall, who promised Cleveland Indians he would be a good boy after being thrown out of half a dozen baseball games for umpire-baiting, wasn't taking any chances on getting the thumb last night.

When teammate Johnny Temple was ousted in the second game of a doubleheader with New York Yankees here last night, Piersall stayed far away from the argument.

He hid behind the centre field monuments.

Yankees Back in First Place

New York Yankees edged back into first place in the American League yesterday, bombing Cleveland Indians twice while Chicago White Sox were losing, 4-2, to the seventh-place Boston Red Sox.

The Yankee lead is only three percentage points, but their double win yesterday indicated they could be healthy again. Home runs by Mickey Mantle (his 26th), Tony Kubek and Cletis Boyer did the damage in the opener, which they won, 4-0, behind Whitey Ford and Bobby Shantz. In the second game, they kayaked Barry Latman for four runs in the first inning and won, 9-2, with Bob Turley getting the victory.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox pulled four double plays to win, 4-0, behind Whitey Ford and Bobby Shantz. In the second game, they kayaked Barry Latman for four runs in the first inning and won, 9-2, with Bob Turley getting the victory.

homer and drove in six runs for Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat Cincinnati Redlegs, 8-6, to move within five games of the Pirates.

In the other American League game, Washington Senators rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and beat Detroit Tigers, 6-5. Harmon Killebrew hit his 10th home run and Jim Lemon his 26th for the Senators.

Locke (6) and Wilson; Verler, Duran (5) and Berry, Howard (4). Home: Cleveland-Knapth (2nd).

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Campbell River area has been the big producer of coho in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest so far in July with 839 coho weighed in the contest.

Claytons, with 166, and Qualicum Beach, with 131 are running neck and neck, and Little River area of Comox entered 139 coho.

Strip-teasers have hooked 345 coho, Tom Mack spoons 291, bucktail flies 243, and Lyman plugs 207.

So far 3,396 coho have been weighed into the 1960 edition of the contest.

Strip-teasers have also outfished all other lures in the spring salmon division, having hooked 520 of the 1,835 springs entered in the contest. Minnow-teasers come next with 342 and Lucky Louie plugs have landed 99.

Brentwood produced 223 of the spring salmon entered so far in July, Goldstream 170, Campbell River 103 and Beaver Bay, where some of the heaviest have been caught, has produced 22 springs in July, biggest one a 55-pounder landed by drift-moother Len Duncan.

Up-Island fishing has reached the point where it is fun for the whole family. That means the grise are biting like mad and it is the right time for dad to take the youngsters out to teach them how to fish, because he is almost certain to catch a mess of grise, and there is always the likelihood of catching two or three salmon.

But grise are a nuisance for the anglers who want salmon. They keep taking the lure, no matter what you toss at them, and it seems there is not much one can do about them, except take them off the hook as gently as possible and throw them back.

Limits are four salmon, three pounds or more, and four grise over eight inches. That is eight fish, only four of which may be salmon.

Fishing in Victoria waters remains just for the lucky fishermen or the experts. The big ones are there and some people are catching them. Two near-40-pounders were landed off Sooke at the weekend. Becher Bay is still producing big ones occasionally, as are Pedder Bay and William Head.

Stan Jones says he has proof the real heavyweights are in Oak Bay waters on the outside of Discovery Island. He couldn't produce his fish, however, because he said it fell off the hook when he was netting it. He said it was so big it overlapped the net.

Stan, who several years ago made news as one of Victoria's most ardent fishermen who was too squeamish to take a fish off a hook, says he now takes the hooks out, but he has yet to clean a fish. He has a record of several in the 30-pound class.

The big tyee are starting to show in the tyee pool at Campbell River, and also at Comox Bay.

Harry and Winifred Southin, 3885 Hollydene Place, Victoria, are holidaying at Deep Bay, just north of Bowser, and report some excellent fishing with live minnows and Tom Mack spoons. Best fishing, they say, is just off the light-house on Yellow Rock and between Denman and Hornby Island.

Eve Lumb of Qualicum Bay says the fish started to come back in the bay Tuesday night and some nice seven-pound coho have been caught, mostly on Tom Mack spoons. Vic Camron and his wife, Dorothy, have had good success fishing at Qualicum Beach where it has been good in the afternoons and evenings, but windy in the mornings.

Victoria's fishing barber, Henry Rollins, and party landed 16 coho on a Tom Mack spoon fishing from Clayton's on Wednesday. The fish are deep off Gerald Island and eight to 10 ounces should be used.

Fishing continues to improve in the Chemainus-Crofton area with springs and coho being taken in good numbers. Ten Island and Smith's Bay, near Crofton, are rated best bets.

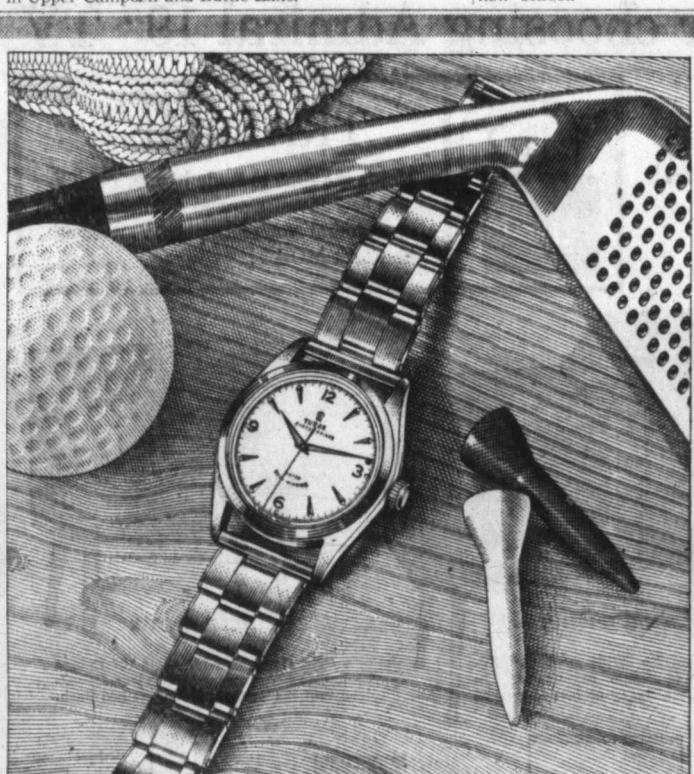

Larry Burnett, of Alberni, took over the top rung on the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club's ladder derby and won top weekly prize money of $10 with a 31:12 spring caught Saturday. Ken Curl took runner-up prize money of $5 with a 31:2 spring. Hidden weight prize of $5 went to Hugh Reid of Cowichan Bay. Other runs on the ladder in the third week belong to Hugh Reid, Cowichan Bay, 30 pounds; Steve Woloshyn, Duncan, 26:4; Jack Petters, Duncan, 21:8; Norman Johnson, Mill Bay, 19:2; June James, Victoria 5:9.

First coho, a seven-pounder, was caught at Cowichan Bay this week.

Saanich Inlet is producing well and in Victoria waters anglers are keeping a watch for coho, which are expected any day now.

Freshwater fishing is at a low ebb and about the only way to get trout is to troll the big lakes very deep. Bass fishing is holding up fairly well in the cool of the evenings and early mornings when the fish come up close to shore to feed.

The summer run of steelhead in the Alberni district's Coleman and China Creeks and Esquimalt River has not materialized because of low water. Trout fishing is fairly good in Upper Campbell and Buttle Lake.

In Cup Play

Ron Willey, above, who with Johnny Johnston of Vancouver are two B.C. rollers on Canada's seven-man team for the Americas Cup matches with Mexico and the United States at Ottawa Aug. 11 and 12, just before the Canadian Amateur and Willingdon Cup matches.

Despite the lack of a victory

Tournament officials are happy to have the "name" U.S. players to add class and prestige to the event. At the same time, however, they admit one of the visitors probably will take the amateur crown out of the country.

The strongest group of entries since Harvey Ward of San Francisco won the title in 1954 will be on hand at the long Ottawa Hunt Club course Aug. 15 when some 200 shotmakers start the five-day championship event.

Seven of the U.S. shotmakers will be here not only to take a crack at the amateur, but also to try to retain their country's firm grip on the Americas Cup. The international event among teams from the U.S., Canada and Mexico will be held Aug. 11-12 at the same Hunt Club course.

The U.S. has won the cup three years in a row since its inception in 1956, narrowly defeating Canada twice.

Leading the U.S. contingent will be youthful Jack Nicklaus defending U.S. amateur champion and the surprise performer of the recent U.S. Open. He set a new open mark for amateurs in finishing two strokes behind the winner, professional Arnold Palmer.

Another member of the American team, former crooner Don Cherry, already has one Canadian Amateur victory. He took the 1953 event at Montreal's Kanawaki course.

Other members of the U.S. squad are captain Bill Hyndman, veteran Charlie Coe, collegiate champion Deane Beman, Dick Crawford and Dr. Frank Taylor Jr.

Canadian entries in the Amateur will be led by last year's winner, Johnny Johnston of Vancouver. Other former champions in the field will include Bruce Castator and Nick Weslock, both of Toronto.

Facing them will be one of the area's toughest courses. The par-73 Hunt Club layout measures 6,740 yards and is heavily trapped throughout its 18 holes. Royal Canadian Golf Association officials, who visited it recently, said they were "highly impressed" that the course would present a championship test to all competitors.

Odds Favor U.S. Golfers In Canadian Amateur Test

OTTAWA (UPI) — The odds are that an American will win the Canadian amateur golf championship next month for the first time in six years.

The strongest group of entries since Harvey Ward of San Francisco won the title in 1954 will be on hand at the long Ottawa Hunt Club course Aug. 15 when some 200 shotmakers start the five-day championship event.

Seven of the U.S. shotmakers will be here not only to take a crack at the amateur, but also to try to retain their country's firm grip on the Americas Cup. The international event among teams from the U.S., Canada and Mexico will be held Aug. 11-12 at the same Hunt Club course.

The U.S. has won the cup three years in a row since its inception in 1956, narrowly defeating Canada twice.

Vote 'Unanimous' Despite Dissent From Louisiana

CHICAGO (UPI) — The official record of the Republican national convention may say that Vice-President Richard M. Nixon was nominated for president unanimously, but those 10 Louisiana votes for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona still stand.

How a unanimous vote can have dissenters is something for students of parliamentary law to figure out. The average delegate just doesn't care. As far as he is concerned, Nixon was nominated unanimously, and that's that.

Goldwater's name was the only one besides Nixon's to be placed in nomination. He promptly withdrew and urged his supporters to back Nixon. Most did, but Louisiana defiantly cast 10 of her 26 votes for Goldwater—the only votes against Nixon.

At the end of the roll call, which showed Nixon with 1,321 against Goldwater's 10, the chairman of the Louisiana delegation, George Reese of New Orleans, moved that Nixon's nomination be made unanimous.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the convention chairman, asked if Louisiana was withdrawing its Goldwater votes. But this couldn't be done without a poll of the delegation. Confusion reigned supreme.

Goldwater's own Arizona delegation moved into the breach by getting the floor and make the motion to make the nomination of Nixon unanimous. It carried with a mighty roar.

50-State Victory Possible

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy said yesterday he could carry all 50 states in the November election.

Kennedy's forecast was relayed to newsmen by Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Democratic national chairman, after he and the party standard-bearer conferred several hours on campaign plans.

"We are all agreed that there is not a single state among the 50 that's safe for the Republicans," Jackson said.

Kennedy Salutes Nixon

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Senator John Kennedy congratulated Vice-President Richard Nixon on his winning the Republican presidential nomination. With Henry Cabot Lodge at the vice-presidential candidate "the Democrats will have a vigorous fight in the fall."

Kennedy denied that he once said President Eisenhower should apologize to Russian Premier Khrushchev, as reported by former New York Governor Thomas Dewey at the Republican convention in Chicago Wednesday night.

"I said the president should have expressed regret over the crash of the U-2 in Soviet territory," Kennedy said, "rather than issue a statement that turned out to be a lie."

And there the drama ended, with the score 1,321-10 in favor of Nixon, but still a unanimous vote.

One of the 10, Mrs. Jean Davis of Shreveport, La., said: "It was a protest vote."

"I voted that way, knowing it would embarrass Sen. Goldwater, because I felt that Mr. Nixon's thinking was not entirely his own and that he was relying heavily on the Rockefeller group," Mrs. Davis said.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the convention chairman, asked if Louisiana was withdrawing its Goldwater votes. But this couldn't be done without a poll of the delegation. Confusion reigned supreme.

Goldwater's own Arizona delegation moved into the breach by getting the floor and make the motion to make the nomination of Nixon unanimous. It carried with a mighty roar.

Canadians May Pull Out

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department is studying as a 1961 prospect the withdrawal of part or all of the motorized Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in West Germany, informants say.

A spokesman for the West German Embassy here said this promised buildup will be achieved next year.

Defence Minister Peakes told the Commons defence committee last month: "As the German army is recruited up to strength there will be more German troops available than there are at the present time and the German army and the German air force will be in a stronger position in a few years' time than they are today."

That, of course, will make a difference in the percentage of the contribution by the different powers.

Man Found In Volcano

TOKYO (AP) — Faint cries for help were heard Wednesday from the smoke-filled crater of Mount Mihara. A six-man rescue party wearing heat-resistant clothes and gas masks descended into the crater and found an unconscious man lying on a rock more than 200 yards down. He was believed to have attempted suicide.

Being a Sacred Premier 'Softest Job in the World'

OTTAWA (CP)—It's a cinch to be a provincial premier. That's the word from Premiers Manning of Alberta and Bennett of British Columbia. But in letting the Social Credit national convention in Ottawa know that it's the "softest job in the world," Mr. Bennett told the convention that it's not so soft. He said it's a cinch to work with, just put them in effect and that's that. Mr. Manning, speaking later, said he's sorry Mr. Bennett gave away a secret he's been trying to keep for years—"how easy it is to lead a Social Credit government and what a soft job it is."

Further U.S. Spy Flights

U.K. to Be Told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has given the British firm assurance they will be advised in advance of any reconnaissance flights by American planes from bases in England, the state department said yesterday.

The department said the agreement was worked out this week in "satisfactory informal talks" with British ambassador Sir Harold Caccia. U.S. officials said privately the agreement means mostly a tightening up of present notification procedures.

CONCERN HEIGHTENED
British concern heightened this month when a U.S. RB-47 reconnaissance plane was shot down by the Russians in the Barents Sea. It had come from an American air base in Britain.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has been criticized lately by Labor party opponents. They charged that U.S. flights might provoke Soviet retaliation against Britain for American operations over which British authorities do not have sufficient control.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has threatened to use rockets and missiles against any country which allows U.S. planes to use bases for flights which violate Soviet territory.

The threats were made after the U-2 spy plane incident of May 1.

The 10 best reasons why your best buy is Vauxhall!

1 Vauxhall is more economical!

How miserly can a carburetor get? You'll find out when you put Vauxhall's peppy 4-cylinder engine to work! Vauxhall saves you money mile after dependable mile.

2 Vauxhall is roomier!

That's an understatement! Vauxhall provides ample space for 5 grownups. And deep, comfortable seats keep them happy on the longest trips.

3 Extra luggage space!

Extra is right! Vauxhall boasts trunk space where others change the subject. With almost 20 cubic feet capacity Vauxhall ensures the family luggage goes on vacation, too!

4 Glass all 'round for an all 'round view!

Vauxhall gives you the safety and convenience of total visibility. Wraparound windows front and rear banish blind spots — make driving and sightseeing more pleasurable.

5 Four doors for extra convenience!

You don't have to be a contortionist to enter Vauxhall's exciting world! Four big, well-shaped doors open wide for dignified entrance and exit front and rear.

6 Specially rust-proofed body!

Damaging rust and corrosion fight a losing battle against Vauxhall's rigid, one-piece body. Special body dip seals all joints and welds — prolongs life and value of your car.

7 Hydraulic-assisted clutch!

There's no fatiguing pedal pressure when you operate Vauxhall's clutch. Gentle hydraulic action does the hard work for you. You drive and arrive fresh and relaxed.

8 Choice of 6 great models!

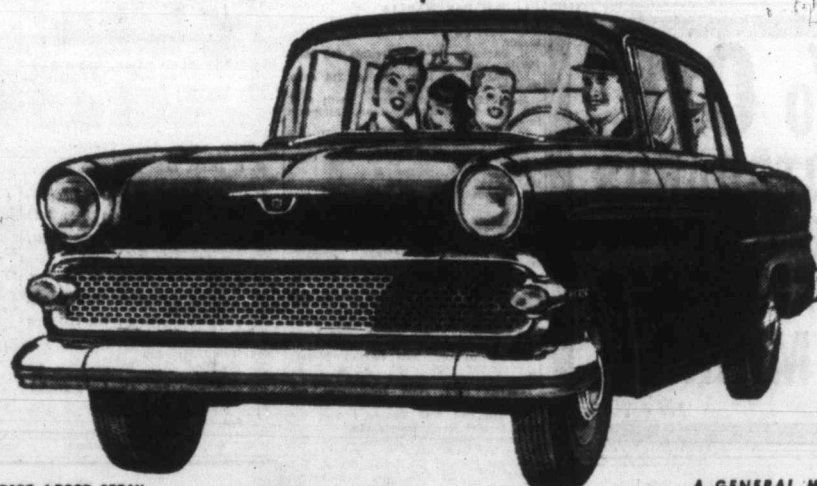

Complementing Vauxhall's famous 4-cylinder Victor series are two great Sixes — the elegant Velox and the luxurious Cresta. Both provide full 6-passenger comfort and convenience.

9 Built and backed by General Motors!

Vauxhall is British built and backed by General Motors. Here is your finest assurance of superb European craftsmanship and quality combined with advanced North American styling.

10 Service everywhere in North America!

Wherever you drive — in Canada or the U.S. you'll find many hundreds of fully-trained service centres — ready to maintain your Vauxhall in top running condition.

You Miss a Lot of Fun Without One

Era of Motorboat Has Arrived!

Two Craft
In Every Household

The day of motorboating is here, and without a boat one misses a big part of the fun of modern living.

Mobility is the theme of today's boating public—and there are more than 50,000 pleasure craft owners using British Columbia's Strait of Georgia waters adjacent to Vancouver Island.

The idea of two cars in every garage captured the imagination of the public a few years back. Today the idea of two boats to every family is catching on quickly.

The first boat may be a cabin cruiser for a new-style vacation and for get-away-from-it-all weekends, or a large runabout or day cruiser, with weather protection, and room for family and friends.

The larger-type yachts and cruisers are still kept at permanent moorings such as the yacht clubs and numerous commercial marinas that are scattered almost everywhere around the Vancouver Island coastline.

But, with today's tilt-boom trailers, it is possible to handle some of the largest day cru-

Fast boats take anglers to waters where the fish are biting, such as East Point, Portlier Pass and Buter's Point. Here Len Woodhouse (left), owner of the cruiser Moccasin, and Rhys Davis pause for a picture as they net a fighting coho off East Point.

This is Gulf Islands cruising at its best as the Vancouver yacht Kaigani cruises in the channel between North and South Pender Islands which are joined by a bridge under which yachts cruise. —(Colonist photos.)

SERVING VICTORIA 30 YEARS
716 FORT STREET—Just one door above Douglas

The great increase in anglers has created a situation far different from that which existed several decades ago. Then a man just eased down the shore for a quarter of a mile or so and found plenty of solitude, trolling room and fish. Now the hot spots may be many miles from the dock and it takes a fast motor to get you there the same day and bring you back.

Four of the hottest fishing spots on Vancouver Island are at Portlier Pass off the end of Galiano Island, East Point off the end of Saturna Island, Butler's Point off the end of Quadra Island, and Nahmint Bay, 14 miles down Alberni Inlet from Port Alberni.

Fast, or at least seaworthy, boats are required to reach any of these hot spots. Fast runabouts and day cruiser boats have opened up a whole new pleasure-land that until a few years ago was the private domain of wealthy yacht owners.

It is the picturesque and usually well-sheltered waters of the Gulf Islands. Millionaire yachts by the hundreds still cruise these waters, but the new relatively inexpensive runabouts and day cruisers—no more expensive than a second car—have brought yachting pleasures to thousands of new enthusiasts.

Big demand now is for launching ramps, and month by month these are becoming more numerous as both private enterprise and government recognize the crying need.

Here are some of the boat-launching ramps to southern Vancouver Island waters:

Mill Bay Tourist Resort, concrete; Indian reserve beach, adjacent to Mill Bay ferry wharf; Shawigan Mountain View Resort on Shawigan Lake, natural beach; Hall's Boathouse at Goldstream, concrete; Goldstream Fish and Game Club grounds for members, natural for small boats but watch tides; Esquimalt Lagoon, natural; Taylor Beach, natural; Weir's Beach at William Head, planks to beach; Pedder Bay Marina, concrete; Becher Bay Marina, concrete; Whiffin Spit, Sooke, gravel beach; Juan de Fuca Auto Court, Otter Point, wooden; Gordon Beach, gravel, for small boats only; Jordan River Beach, natural beach gravel in the village of Jordan River; Davidson's Small Boat Wharfage, Sooke, natural beach; Angelsea Motel, Sooke, natural gravelled; Esquimalt Anglers' Association, foot of Lampson and Munro, two concrete ramps; James Bay Anglers' Association, near Ogden Point docks, four concrete ramps where boats may be launched at lowest tides; Clover Point, for small boats only on calm days; Ross Bay, for small boats only on calm days.

Oak Bay, near boathouse, concrete; Cattle Point, concrete; Smugglers' Cove, Ten Mile Point, beach; Elk Lake, next to rowing club or at Eagles Playground; Island View Beach, planks to beach in summer only; Bajan Bay, foot of Weiler, off Lochside, natural beach; Sidney, near ferry dock; Roberts Bay, foot of Ardwell Avenue, off Rosedale Drive, natural; Shoal Harbor, foot of Griffiths Road, off Harbor Road, constructed, public.

Canoe Cove Marina Ltd., crane launching; Van Isle Marina Ltd., Harbor Road, Sidney, concrete ramp; Deep Cove Chalet, concrete ramp.

King Fisherman

First Coho Reach Victoria Waters

The first of the coho run may have reached Victoria.

Today's King Fisherman entries bring in eight coho from Oak Bay waters and four from Pedder Bay waters, ranging up to seven and one-half pounds.

The big springs are still around and Brian Waddell landed a 24.4 and 21.8 on a Minnow-Tearer at Pedder Bay this week.

U.S. Placing Few Orders

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Production Minister O'Hurley indicated Thursday the United States will place fewer defence contracts in Canada this year than last.

He said in the Commons that value of contracts placed to date this year, including both prime and subcontracts, is $35,000,000. The total for all of 1959 was $96,000,000.

Canada-U.S. defence production-sharing could be "much better," Mr. O'Hurley said.

He admitted frankly that he is not optimistic about the short-term prospects of Canadian companies getting more American defence contracts.

He said requirements for weapons are changing rapidly. Canadian firms would have to get in on the ground floor—the development stage—to be able to bid for and obtain U.S. contracts, especially in the electronics and missile fields.

Blitz in U.K. Fake-Reds

MOSCOW (AP)—The new and officially sponsored Soviet history of the Second World War has declared the 1940 Battle of Britain a fake.

Volume I of the "History of the Great Patriotic War of the Soviet Union 1940-45" contends the battle was an elaborate smokescreen to disguise Hitler's preparations to invade the Soviet Union.

Prince Rupert

Railroad Writ Amended

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Judge William A. Schultz Thursday granted an amendment to Prince Rupert's writ against the Pacific Northern Railway Company.

The city originally sought a writ on the grounds that the company acted illegally in starting construction before obtaining a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the Public Utilities Commission.

The amended writ further claims that the PNR should not start construction on its line until it has complied with provisions contained in Section 27 of the Railways Act.

SUMMIT LAKE
The company proposes to build its line from Summit Lake north of Prince George to the Yukon border.

Prince Rupert opposes this plan on the grounds that it would be more economical to both Prince Rupert and the northland as a whole if it were started at Hazelton.

The city claims the proposed line from Summit Lake parallels CNR facilities for approximately 300 miles. The city says $30,000,000 in building costs would be saved.

Boy Mourns Loss Of Pump Car

Loss of a wooden pump car has nearly broken the heart of five-year-old John Bryce, who is hoping someone will return it.

The boy's father, J. A. Bryce, 1272 Pembroke, said his son lost the small, homemade car at Stevenson Park July 7 and it still hasn't been returned.

"If the car is returned John's summer will be much happier, and the finder will feel much happier, too," he said.

Ike's Remarks Raise Hackles In Scandinavia

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (Reuters) — President Eisenhower did not win any votes in Scandinavia Thursday.

Newspapers in Sweden, Norway and Denmark raised a mass howl over his criticism Wednesday of drunkenness, suicides and lack of ambition in an unnamed friendly socialist country of Europe.

It was generally agreed here that the president, who was defending middle-of-the-road government against left or rightist forms, was talking about Sweden.

Each of three socialist Scandinavian countries took a quick look at its suicide and drunkenness statistics and concluded that whether they were high or low, it had nothing to do with socialism.

Norway came up with statistics showing that Americans drink two or three times as much as Norwegians and have a far greater suicide rate.

Anti-Ike cracks appeared in virtually all Scandinavian newspapers.

In Stockholm, the socialist newspaper Aftonbladet advised the president to observe the old adage: "It is better to keep quiet and be suspected of foolishness than to speak and erase all doubt of it."

Oslo's Communist newspaper Friheten was blunter. It headlined: "Eisenhower makes an ass of himself in the eyes of the world again."

Victoria May Grow Up Under New Zoning

A new type of zone in which apartment blocks up to 12 storeys high will be permitted is provided for in a bylaw given preliminary approval yesterday by city council.

The proposed bylaw also provides for the first of such zones, at Douglas and Simcoe across from Beacon Hill park, where a company is seeking to build an eight-storey block.

Present absolute limit on height is 75 feet, and in most situations it is three storeys. The advisory planning commission, recommending approval of this bylaw, indicated it will propose similar zoning where appropriate after further study.

APC representative Col. J. R. Kington told council the commission now believes there are "desirable locations along the waterfront for these skyscraper luxury apartments, as long as they don't increase the density of population per acre."

To this end, the proposed bylaw requires that total floor area of an apartment block in one of the new "high density multiple dwelling zones" may not exceed a proportion of the site area ranging from 40 per cent, for a two-storey building, to 200 per cent for a 10, 11 or 12-storey building.

$300,000 Tax 'Beef' Revived by Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrell yesterday revived a long-standing complaint against the provincial government's refusal to make grants in lieu of taxes on its property in the city.

The federal government, he said, pays the equivalent of taxes on most of its property in Victoria, but the city loses between $250,000 and $300,000 a year in revenue because the provincial government won't.

Hospital Polio Ward Admits City 'Suspect'

A 27-year-old Victoria man yesterday became the 12th person to enter Royal Jubilee Hospital's polio ward—but hospital officials emphasized he was only a suspect, in for observation.

They added that the patient, Clifford Kadatz, had had three polio shots and had previously been a victim of the disease itself.

All other patients in the ward were said to be still in "satisfactory" condition.

Murdoch Bears Sacred Banner In Oak Bay

Oak Bay Reeve Murdoch last night became that provincial constituency's Social Credit candidate in a nominating session which lasted less than three minutes.

The 15-year veteran of Oak Bay council was placed in nomination by Oak Bay Social Credit League president Mrs. Edward Brand and was unopposed for the task of trying to win the traditionally Liberal stronghold left without representation by the death earlier this year of P. A. "Archie" Gibbs.

SO ATTEND

In accepting the nomination from a convention which boasted close to 80 delegates in a total attendance of more than 90 persons, Mr. Murdoch said it was the fact that Oak Bay won substantial aid from the province in spite of Liberal representation that convinced him "that the government wasn't playing politics."

He recalled the "old days" when, he said, you could tell a constituency which boasted a member of the government "because the roads were fixed up."

GREAT REPUTATION

Health Minister Eric Martin told the convention that the Oak Bay reeve "has a great reputation—a reputation which I envy."

He said the government's program for hospital insurance coverage of chronic patients would begin next month and that the step following that would be implementation of a medical coverage plan.

"And after medical care, dental care, and after that, drugs, prescriptions and artificial limbs."

IN EASY STAGES

The program would go ahead in easy stages, he said, "as we can afford it."

It is not a socialistic program because it would preserve the principle of "maximum freedom along with the financial security," he added.

He charged Opposition Leader Robert Strachan with having done "a disservice" to organized labor in attempting to undermine public confidence in the Wenner-Gren proposals for Peace River area development and said opposition charges of giveaway "can be summed up in a single word—poppycock."

CONTINUE TO SERVE

Reeve Murdoch said he would continue to serve as chairman of the Oak Bay council at least until December, 1961, if he is elected to the legislature, but would gradually become less active in his radio and electronics business.

Rehire Works Crew Ratepayers Demand

In a fiery meeting lasting more than two hours Central Saanich ratepayers last night voted to circulate a petition asking council to reinstate the public works crew formally fired by council Tuesday.

Coun. Ray Lamont, who voted against the firing motion, took up the cudgel on behalf of the soon-to-be unemployed crew.

He told the meeting that during the reeveship of Sydney the works foreman was invited to meetings of the works committee and council. This gave councillors the other side of the picture, he said.

He said the present council seemed to regard the department head as just a works foreman.

Earlier, Coun. W. F. Gratton, works committee chairman, was called on by ratepayers to answer questions on the firing but he declined, saying he had been invited to the meeting to discuss the sale of the Elk Lake pipeline.

Fling in Fountain Fun for Few Fans

A handful of tourists who came upon a negligee-clad 20-year-old girl dancing on tip-toes in the lighted fountain in front of the legislative buildings last night thought it was an initiation.

City police, who thought it was illegal, got there too late. The girl's friends—who told the Colonist—thought it was a lot of fun.

Cement Sidewalk Hardens—Inside the Truck

The new sidewalk this truck was carrying has hardened up well enough for people to walk on already. Only trouble, it's still in the cement cylinder and will have to be chipped out. The truck, which was unloading quick-setting redi-mix, slipped off the soft shoulder of the road at Cordova Bay. Rescue attempts were in vain until a crane hauled the truck back on the road, but after five hours the cement was solid.—(Ryan Bros. photo.)

Council Raids Land Sale Fund For Road Money

Over opposition from two aldermen, city council yesterday decided to take money from its reverted lands sales fund to spend on road improvements, and thereby obtain a matching provincial grant.

But several members objected to the provincial government attaching to its grant the "string" of requiring equal expenditure, on specific projects, by the city.

The city engineer reported that the budget approved by council earlier in the year contained $33,000 for work which would qualify, and recommended taking $35,000 from the land-sales fund.

CHIEF GUARDIAN

"Eeeesh!", said Ald. Arthur Dowell, recognized as the chief guardian of the fund, which could one day help build a new city hall or auditorium.

He and Ald. Elmer McEwen voted against the proposal. Mayor Percy Scurrell, although he voted for it, said he hated to see the land account "raided" as we have been doing.

CURBS, BAYS

The money will be used to complete curbs and parking bays on Douglas beside Beacon Hill Park, to pave Quadra from Pandora to Hillside and to acquire property to improve the Johnson-Wharf intersection.

Among other actions yesterday, council:

• Gave final approval to a bylaw to place increased water rates in effect in the city Aug. 1.

• Voted, without debate, to provide the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee with an extra $1,500 for maintenance at Elk Lake and Beaver Lakes and rehiring of a laid-off lifeguard. Saanich is expected to contribute a like amount.

Plant Closes Nov. 30

Operations of the Sidney Roofing and Paper Company plant in its present capacity will come to an end Nov. 30.

But the property itself may be used for some other purpose by the parent company, MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

STUDYING POSSIBILITIES

John A. Craig, president and managing director of Sidney Roofing and Paper Co., said last night the parent company is now studying possibilities for using the Victoria plant for some other purpose within the company operations.

It is hoped the studies will show that the plant can be used to manufacture some product that won't be so adversely affected by freight rates as the Sidney company product, Mr. Craig said.

Immediately after the plant is closed Nov. 30, machinery which is used to manufacture paper will be dismantled and moved to Burnaby. The move is expected to be completed by the end of this year.

STILL EMPLOYED

About 50 Victoria residents are still employed by the plant.

The company is now negotiating a new water purchase agreement with the city to tide it over until the end of the year.

Sidney Roofing had a long-term contract which expires at the end of this month.

City council yesterday authorized the mayor to negotiate with the company on water rates and report back, with the stipulation that the city shouldn't lose money.

Complaints 'Legitimate' Present Law Too Weak

By R. O. MARRION

An anti-cinder bylaw strict enough "likely to cause some hardship" to industry is in prospect in Victoria.

The smoke abatement advisory committee, chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow told city council yesterday, will recommend such a bylaw.

"Does council want to cure this matter or shut its eyes to it?" he asked.

"We can't do that," said Mayor Percy Scurrell, and the committee was asked for a report and recommendations.

The committee, Ald. Edgelow said, had found complaints about smoke and fly-ash to be "legitimate," and the present anti-smoke bylaw "not good enough."

His remarks to council followed by a couple of hours a lively public meeting in council chamber which produced one new suggested remedy, but led to an old conclusion:

Difficult Problem

"It's a very difficult problem," Ald. Edgelow summed up after hearing arguments from offenders and victims.

"We do want industry here, and still the people in the area affected shouldn't be made to suffer as much as they are."

The new suggestion came from Sam Swetnam of Ecomony Steam Laundry, once but no longer ranked among the chief offenders.

Perhaps, he said, the city and industries could co-operate to establish a plant to burn wood waste efficiently and generate electricity, which could be used for street-lighting and perhaps by the industries.

From others at the meeting came these comments:

Smoke Inspector Thomas Walker: The wood waste that has to be disposed of daily in Victoria amounts to 50 or 60 tons, about half the weight composed of water which "makes a visible pall, but not serious or harmful." There is "no other way of disposing of this waste within a reasonable cost except by burning."

Out the Chimney

Brad Howland, a Stewart and Hudson employee speaking as an individual: The B.C. Forest Products sawmill produces fly-ash that is "the problem of every working man, householder and business man in the area... Inefficient effort to burn wood waste is tantamount to taking your own waste and shooting it out the chimney onto someone else's property."

Herbert Barnes, BCFP sawmill manager: BCFP, with 950 employees and a payroll of $4,000,000, has had a continuous program of betterment of smoke and cinder emission, and has spent $600,000 on developments which have been directly or indirectly beneficial. The company has been unable to find a satisfactory solution to the problem. And stricter legislation "might well force ourselves and other industries into costs we cannot afford."

Henry J. Smith, 1004 Catherine: By failing to tighten up regulations, the city has been "pampering industry and neglecting its citizens." The industries have the money to improve the situation, "and if they go out, we'll have a better class in. Let's have clean industry."

Obviously Toothless

Lloyd MacKenzie, solicitor representing tourist establishments on Douglas in the cinder zone: The companies causing the nuisance have an obligation to find the solution. Victoria's bylaw, "obviously toothless and inappropriate from the beginning," should be made more effective, like Vancouver's.

Ernest Hudson, of Stewart and Hudson: Cinders in the industrial area are probably keeping new industry from locating there.

Mr. Barnes: Perhaps one reason new industry isn't coming is that "industry is getting a pretty bad time from everybody."

Jack MacKenzie, International Woodworkers' business agent: An $8,000,000 payroll is involved, and council "ought."

should think carefully about doing anything that might put good citizens out of work.

Tools Rushed To Fire Area

A B.C. forestry official said hand tools and power pumps are being rushed from the quiet Prince Rupert district to the hard-pressed Nelson forest district.

A Pacific Western Airlines DC-3 has been chartered for the purpose.

It was to arrive in Kimberley at 11 p.m. and the tools will be taken to the Cranbrook area, which was hard hit by lightning storms Wednesday night.

High-Crowned Hat King of Fashion

By NANCY PHILLIPS

NEW YORK — Hats! Hats! Hats! Hats! Hats! If all the chapeau I've seen in the last 48 hours were laid end to end, they'd form a path leading straight to the psychiatrist's couch. And guess who'd be on it.

Your correspondent, as you see, is quietly recovering from the Manhattan press showings of five mad hatters. And when I say mad I mean crazy like a fox quid.

Those perennial head-masters John-Fredericks, Mr. John, Walter Florell, Emme and Sally Victor, have each given us a whirlwind tour of hat-land.

Out of the kaleidoscope of shapes, fabrics, and colors that whirled past up—a few basic hat facts emerged. This fall, the high-crowned hat will be king.

Tilted backward, or worn on the level, the new look will be a lot of hat look. There'll be a hundred variations on the high-rising theme, pyramid shapes, dome shapes, round turban shapes—but basically the fall and winter silhouette is, shall we say, 'way out.'

And this was reflected in all the collections. John Fredericks did marvelous things with fake and real furs. In the for-real department were mink, broadtail, satiny beavers, leopard and a number of off-beat beasties like civet, lynx, and white Italian lamb. ("Looks heavenly on the bathroom floor too, girls," cried our host.)

FRANKLY TERRIFIC Frankly fake and looking frankly terrific were dalmatian, (at first I thought those spots were vino-inspired), otter, leopard and even by gad, zebra. (Not recommended for dining at El Morocco, dear.)

Shapes: domed, Garbo-ish, inverted flower-pot or fez, ballooning beret, and turban. Loved his collection of "hedges," too. These bits of cunning nonsense, designed for the woman "who won't wear hats" — or prefers itchy-bitty excuses instead — are mostly seductive veil plus some important whoozit on top. Well, you know what I mean.

In all the collections the ascending color stars are purples — from the palest mauve and amethyst to deep plum. Mossy greens, golds and electrifying blues are running a close second. And raspberry. The inimitable Mr. J. had so many show-stoppers in his collection that I'll describe only a few at random: fragile tulle turbans (to be worn with tweeds, sweetie), a great bubble of white feather "snowballs," a sensational teacup (?) of opussum, a leopard sou'wester, lipstick red brushed-beaver toque, enormous femme fatale dome of ostrich ("I made this one to scare myself," he giggled) and the headiest group of all — his knockout "occasion" hats.

Not really hats—but glittering head ornaments of flexible wire encrusted with diamonds. And all set by jewelers. You might call them delightfully berserk tiaras, or the Napoleon of Hats has done it again. Walter Florell, in my opinion, has no peer when it comes to understated drama. Irresistible, I thought were the timeless full-blown berets in satin and velvet. Printed velvets, too.

Juggler After Record

VANCOUVER (CP) — A waterfront laborer whose ambition is to set a world juggling record performs nightly in downtown Victory Square.

Al Forbes juggles first three, then five and finally seven rubber balls. He says the record is 10.

It has taken him five years of practice to keep even seven rubber balls moving and he can do that only for a few seconds.

"If I don't break the record I'll die in the attempt," says Forbes.

He first became interested in juggling after meeting a circus performer. "I found it relaxing. You lose yourself when you're juggling. Some people like tennis. Me, I like juggling."

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Green, 2330 Trent Street, have announced the engagement of their youngest daughter, Gloria Doreen, to Mr. William Allen McClusky, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lee of Cranbrook, B.C. The wedding will take place Saturday, Aug. 20, at 7 p.m., in the First United Church.—(Ryan Bros. Studio.)

London Horse Show

Horns and Hounds And Royal Crowd

(Eileen Leary now in England, is on a European tour.)

By EILEEN LEARY
I went with my cousins the French Blake's yesterday to that great arena in London, the White City, to see the Royal International Horse Show.

The cousins are more interested because they raise show jumpers themselves.

The Royal Standard was flying because Princess Anne was there—later the Princess Royal arrived with the Duchess of Beaufort and a huge party. Everyone in the Royal box at one time or another seemed to present a prize.

There were no jumpers from Canada which hurt my pride—however, there was a splendid team from Australia, riders from the U.S., Holland, Japan, the Argentine, Eire, South Africa, Ireland, New Zealand and of course a large British team.

It was a nerve-racking day. Lady Sarah Fitzalan-Howard broke her nose. Mr. Bob Grayston of South Africa broke his collar bone. The great David Broome, only 19, on his magnificent chestnut gelding Sunsalve couldn't get over the 7 foot "brick" wall—and no wonder—Sunsalve is so small and the wall so high. But he won the big prize, the George V cup.

The Royal Horse Guards (The Blues) pranced around the stadium with the band mounted. One of the highlights to me, was the glorious gallop and display put on by the West Kent Hunt, complete with Foxhounds.

The pink-coated Master of the Hounds blew his hunting horn, the hounds bayed and flew around the arena, the huntsmen galloped, the band played a frenzied tune.

Another thrill was the coaching match with two ancient mail coaches, complete with passengers vying to see which could change teams faster at a "roadside inn." A record of 47 seconds set by the famous whip Miss A. Sylvia Brocklebank, OBE in 1938 was broken. I saw this fantastic change-over of four horses take place in 45 seconds.

The entire spectacle is a marvel to remember. The riders from Ireland and the Argentine in uniform; the pink-coated "huntsmen" bowing to the Royal box; Jane Bullen of the famous riding Bullen family (her brother age five recently had a clear round in junior jumping) looking supremely elegant in top hat and winning the dressage; hearing the band of the 5th Royal Inniskilling Dragoon Guards; meeting Lady Sarah Fitzalan-Howard of Arundel Castle (before she broke her nose), and the great Olympic trainer, Count Paul Rodzian, and other marvelous women jumpers like Sue Cohen and perhaps the most famous of them all, Pat Smythe.

HORSY DAY
It was what you might call a horsey day.

In between meeting horse owners, trainers, riders, we stopped at various gorgeous bars to have drinks with them. We even had dinner in an enclosure with judges and competitors where I tried very hard to keep my mouth shut and not embarrass my knowledgeable cousins.

The only time I opened it, was to make the ghastly faux pas of mistaking a hunting horn for a coaching horn.

There was a grizzly silence while I babbled something about both of them making marvelous hearing aids.

The day began at 10 a.m. and did not finish until 11 p.m. SHOPS TOO

After dinner, and before the evening show, we whiled away the time visiting the vast number of small shops set up in the ring of the White City. We visited Moss Bros of Covent Garden, Garrard and Co. Ltd.,

Summer Meal

Gazpacho Good Start

Perfect beginning for a summer meal is Gazpacho, a tangy chilled soup of Spanish origin.

In fact, Gazpacho is ideal for effortless summer entertaining. The flavor actually improves with keeping, and it needs no last-minute attention.

Gazpacho originated at the Castellana Hilton in Madrid.

High in vitamins and low in calories, Gazpacho can be kept sealed in the refrigerator for weeks without losing its flavor or food value.

CHILLED GAZPACHO (Serves Six)

Four medium tomatoes, 2 cucumbers, 2 green peppers, 2 large raw onions, 1 clove garlic, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, 1 cup olive oil, 1 tablespoon Tabasco, 1 bottle ketchup, 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, 3 chopped chives for garnish.

To prepare the soup, peel and chop remaining onions with chopped chives.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a woman wrote to you and signed herself "Lonely." She said she was a career girl, attractive, had money in the bank and presented a bold front to the outside world.

Everyone thought she was very happy and a big success, but she admitted she was lonely and would gladly trade places with many wives who wrote to complain about their husband's sloppy habits, poor table manners, bum jokes, etc., etc.

Please tell me who this woman is, Ann, and where I can contact her. She can have mine.

I'm sure he'd be glad to meet her, since she has a nice bank account and is attractive. Judging from what he has been running around with lately, she sounds like a vast improvement.

If this girl has an interesting career, I hope she'll keep it and stop looking for trouble. I traded a good job, independence and self-respect for a broken washing-machine, a second hand refrigerator and a no-food man—SMART TOO LATE.

Dear Smart: Sorry, but I never divulge the identity of those who write to me.

If it's any comfort, you're not alone in your misery. I was stunned at the number of women who wrote to tell me "Lonely" could have their husbands—with pleasure.

This is indeed a sad commentary on the state of Family Life.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife belongs to several organizations. She's got the energy of a high-school kid plus a gift of gab that puts Hugh Downs in the shade.

I don't mind her working hard for causes, but it's ruining her good name in this town. Whenever they see her coming, they say, "How much this time, Edna?"

Sometimes people forget she's collecting for a worthy cause and seem to think they are giving money to her. Edna has had some run-ins with some pretty big people in town and I don't want her to jeopardize her personal standing.

Don't you feel the job of collecting money, selling tickets and asking for favors should be split up and not fall to the same person? — DNYAMO'S HUSBAND.

Dear Husband: I agree that fund-raising, ticket-selling and asking favors should NOT fall always to the same person. But it usually does—and for good reason.

Few people want these thankless jobs, and fewer still are equipped to do them well. I don't agree that Edna is ruining her good name. The few stupid people who fail to understand that she is donating her time and energy and shoe leather are not worth worrying about.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a boy almost 15 and I have a big problem—my folks.

I go with a gang of fellows who are a couple of years older. They all have permission to take a 400-mile bicycle trip—200 each way. I want to go but my folks say no.

I can handle a bike as well as anybody and I know I'd have a great time. The plan is to camp out and I have all the gear I would need. Please help me. I feel like an infant.

—B.K.L.

Dear B.K.L.—Your parents have an emotional investment in you dating back almost 15 years. If they say you aren't ready for a 400-mile bike trip, take their word for it.

This is one of the problems that crop up when you go with kids who are older. Grin and bear it—and listen to your parents. They know the territory.

Are you tempted to snitch because the crowd does it? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Eleanor Malcolmson Married in Edmonton

The wedding took place in Edmonton, Alta. recently of Eleanor Gilliam Malcolmson, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Kerr Malcolmson, 2714 Topp Avenue, Victoria, and the late Dr. Patrick Malcolmson, to Mr. Jon Duncan Merry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Robert Merry of Vancouver.

The bride attended St. Margaret's School in Victoria.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Patrick Malcolmson of Calgary.

An antique white gown of crystal charm was chosen by the bride. The princess line extended into a train. Seed pearls and lace appliques outlined the scoop neckline.

The bride wore a coronet to hold her chapel veil, and she carried a prayer book decorated with flowers. Her single strand of cultured pearls and

Sharon Atkinson Wed In Quiet Ceremony

The wedding of Sharon Lulu Atkinson and Mr. Robert Murray Schneider took place quietly in the magistrate's office on July 22.

A family supper for 35 persons followed at Chez Marcel and later in the evening a reception was held for 200 guests in the Club Sirocco.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Atkinson, Darwin Road, wore a ballerina length dress of white lace over taffeta and tiny jacket. A white sat in bow edged with pearls held her shoulder-length veil and she carried red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Sheila Brown, bridesmaid wore turquoise crystal taffeta and the matching velvet bandeau in her hair was flower trimmed. Her bouquet was pink gladiolus and stephanotis.

The groom, son of Mrs. E. Schneider, Ralph Street, and the late Mr. Schneider, had the bride's brother, Mr. Ronald Atkinson as best man.

At the reception Mr. John Lupton proposed the toast and Mrs. Norma Allan was soloist.

The bride's table, centred with a lace cloth, was centred with a three-tiered cake flanked by crystal vases filled with pink and white carnations.

For a honeymoon in Alberta the bride's going away costume was a light blue suit, small feather hat and accessories in brown tones. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

The young couple will make their home in Whitehorse, Yukon territories.

Heirloom Pieces For Craigdarroch

By JAMES K. NESBITT

Furniture, pictures and bric-a-brac which will eventually go into Craigdarroch Castle, when and if it becomes a public museum, are now being placed in storage by the Society for the Preservation and Maintenance of Craigdarroch Castle.

One of the most interesting pieces is a massive oak desk, presented by Kirk Coal Company.

This desk was used by Robert Dunsmuir, builder of the Castle in the 1870's, at his office in "Beaufort House," in Cumberland.

There are those who say it came around the Horn from England by sailing ship, but more likely it was manufactured in San Francisco, from where came most of the castle's furnishings.

MARBLE CLOCK

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Drury have presented a green marble clock, surmounted by a brass figure of Diane, a marble-top, mirrored Victorian hall stand, and a Japanese hand-carved bronze lion, a collector's item. These were once the property of Mr. Drury's father, the late R. L. Drury, one-time member of the Legislature.

Mrs. A. J. Gray has presented water colors by Miss Josephine Crease, daughter of Sir Henry Peling Pelletier, Crease, and Lady Crease of "Pentirew," the Crease home on Fort Street hill, now modernized as a church.

From Harry Burnett has come a child's sleigh and baby carriage, the type used by fashionable families in the 1890's, and from Mrs. Dorothy Ketchen a rare Indian hand-made basket.

The daughters of the late Mrs. A. D. Macdonald, who was a granddaughter of Robert Dunsmuir, have given a set of miniature teak furniture, a nursery feature.

James Audain, great-grandson of Dunsmuir, has presented sterling silver and brass-framed photographs of Lady Musgrave, sixth Dunsmuir daughter, who was married at the castle in 1891, and of Mrs. James Dunsmuir, the mistress of Hatley Park.

Many people are now making a search for furniture and pictures which were originally in the castle, and which were sold here by auction following Mrs. Robert Dunsmuir's death in 1908.

Summer Talks Lined Up

The Victoria centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada has lined up an interesting schedule of summer lectures.

Included in the program are lectures by Dr. G. J. Odgers of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Saanich, speaking on "The Universe of Stars," Monday; Dr. K. O. Wright also of Saanich observatory, will speak on "The Earth and Its Neighbors," Aug. 8; P. E. Bomford of Oak Bay Senior High School will speak on "Numbers, Sizes and Shapes," Aug. 15; A. Muir, president of the Victoria centre of the society will speak on "Subjects for Telescopes," Aug. 22.

A visit will be paid to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory by an invitation from the director, Dr. R. M. Petrie.

The meetings will be held at the Victoria University auditorium, Richmond and Lansdowne Road, at 8.30 p.m. A fee of $1 will be charged non-society members for the entire series of lectures.

Further information may be obtained from J. A. Muir, president, at EV 3-5092.

Spy Plane Not Hit Says London Paper

LONDON (Reuters) — Francis Gary Powers belly-landed his American U-2 plane in Russia and the craft was probably never hit by Soviet anti-aircraft fire, the weekly newspaper London American report.

The U-2 can fly at 110,000 feet, and Powers was in radio contact during the May 1 flight with another U-2 plane, the newspaper said.

Bill Amended

Anti-Bias Insertion To Bolster Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — Anti-discrimination provisions in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's bill of rights were strengthened Thursday by a special Commons committee with government approval.

The committee wrote into the bill a declaration proposed by Justice Minister Fulton that rights and freedoms shall be enjoyed "without discrimination by reason of race, national origin, religion or sex."

Mr. Fulton also announced that the government is prepared to accept an amendment that Canadians are entitled to be presumed innocent until they are proved guilty.

Section Three of the bill would prevent the imposition of "torture, or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment."

The main criticism is that the provision is in conflict with the Criminal Code which provides for capital and corporal punishment. Mr. Fulton said the government is prepared to amend the section to put a ban on "the imposition of cruel and unusual treatment or punishment."

West Indian Raps Ottawa Color Bar

OTTAWA (UPI) — A 32-year-old British West Indian who claims he was refused admission to a high rental housing project because he is a Negro said yesterday "pockets of discrimination" exist in Ottawa.

John E. Tertullian, a federal government economist who is studying for his doctorate, has started legal action against the owner of the project.

Tertullian, who came to Canada in 1953 and has been living in Ottawa for two years, said he made his case public to focus attention to it.

'Root Out Racism'

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholics in the United States have a new catechism on racial segregation.

It includes such points as this:

Question: Can a person inclined to racial prejudice completely overcome, by an act of his will, any racial feelings he may have?

Answer: He cannot destroy this feeling completely by a single act of his will. To root out this feeling will require time and many repeated acts of the will.

The catechism considers the subject in terms both of theory and deed. For instance:

Q. Why is segregation based on race alone immoral?

A. Because such segregation is based on "racism" which teaches that certain races and nationalities are inherently and naturally superior to other races . . .

And:

Q. May Catholics be members of organizations whose purpose is to continue segregation as we know it?

A. Catholics may not be members of such organizations because by so doing they are promoting a system which is unjust and uncharitable.

The 17-page "elementary catechism" was written earlier this year by Most Rev. Albert L. Fletcher, bishop of Little Rock, Ark., for use in study groups.

SEVEN BILLION SALES

Sales of General Motors Corporation in the first half of 1960 topped the 7,000,000,000 mark—a new record—but earnings, although higher than a year ago did not constitute a record.

The net profit was $611,584,338 ($2.15 a share) against $590,285,641 ($2.08 a share) in the first half of 1959.

It is being distributed generally by the National Catholic Welfare Conference in advance of the national Catholic conference for interracial justice in St. Louis Aug. 25 and 26.

From a standing start... to a startling success!

Introduced only six short months ago and it's going great guns!

In the brief period since its introduction, this brand-new General Motors product, designed especially for Canadians, has chalked up a remarkable sales success record! Thanks to your enthusiastic acceptance, Envoy is now firmly established in its field! The reasons? Well, first there's Envoy's outstanding economy—initial price so low it's hard to believe, and amazing mileage per gallon from the Econo-Power 4-cylinder engine. Then there's convenience—lots of interior room and comfort, four-door design in all models, loads of trunk space! And, of course, style—sleek modern lines, glamour-crafted interiors and a wide range of color choices. Why don't you too, join the swing to Envoy—the car that's going great guns?

Water-Bomber Pilot:

It's Just Like Speeding Big Truck Down Hill

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Members of the water-bombing squadron fighting forest fires in this area face their hazardous assignment with an easy confidence.

They feel that if all else is equal, their experience is enough to overcome the dangers.

"Actually, it's not much more dangerous than driving a logging truck down a steep grade at high speed," says Peter Deck, "If something goes wrong, it's tough."

WELL SUITED

Deck and chief pilot John Anderson and the other pilots, Ois Olson of Yakima, Wash., Alec Davidson and Al Beveridge, agree their Avenger aircraft are well suited for the work they're doing, diving down as low as 25 feet above the treetops to dampen the edges of a fire or douse small fires before they become big ones.

The pilots, flying veterans with wartime experience, know that sudden downdrafts and turbulence caused by the heat can whip them out of the sky without warning.

NEED EXPERIENCE

"It's hazardous," agrees Anderson. "But the hazard is always proportionate to the experience of the pilot."

Says Deck: "The pilot must always leave himself a way out when he goes down to bomb. He should always think as though something has gone wrong and his load didn't dump."

Four Crashes Spark Fire Bomber Probes

PORTLAND (AP)—No report has been made yet on why four B-25 bomber-dumping planes have crashed in the west during the past six days.

The forest service said here Thursday that the regional safety officer was looking for clues in the wreckage of the B-25 which went down July 22 in eastern Oregon. Two were killed.

A hearing has been called to investigate the crash of the B-25 in the Hells Canyon area of Idaho. Three died in the crash.

Two other B-25s—one in southern California and one in north central Washington—cracked up also within the past week. Each plane had two men aboard, and all were killed.

Likely Winner

John Myon Chang's democratic party was a strong favorite to win the Republic of Korea's most crucial election since the overthrow of Syngman Rhee. Chang will likely be new premier.

Immigration 'Brokers' Held

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Chinese "immigration agents" the first persons in eastern Canada to be arrested since the RCMP began a long investigation into the alleged smuggling of thousands of Chinese into Canada, were arraigned here Thursday.

Bruce Wong, 44, and Henry Chan, 40, were arrested in their travel agencies in Montreal's Chinatown earlier in the day. They are to appear for preliminary hearing Aug. 3 on a total of 13 charges.

Wong is charged with three counts of perjury, three of forgery and three of uttering forged immigration and citizenship documents. Chan faces two charges of forgery and two of uttering.

Wong was among prominent members of Montreal's Chinese community who recently went to Ottawa to discuss the situation with Immigration Minister Fairclough.

In Ottawa, the government in a blunt statement of policy to members of Canada's Chinese community says it fully intends to bring to justice the ringleaders of the recently disclosed Chinese immigration racket.

A four-page pamphlet being distributed by the immigration department to Canadian Chinese also says that victims of the racket have a responsibility to themselves, to their families and to their country to co-operate with police in providing information.

Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln-dried siding is the finest available — a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER

Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white to the narrow sapwood to reddish brown heartwood. It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, points and enamels excellently, and is superior for gluing. Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY
Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS
Left exposed without paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing grey color having little or no sheen. It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES
Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly-used soft woods — another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance when used as roof decking.

Sharp Rise In Exports Of Lumber

VANCOUVER (CP) — Despite a continuing decline in domestic markets, waterborne lumber shipments from British Columbia ports were up sharply in the first half of the year.

Figures released by the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau, Seattle, showed total shipments from B.C. ports in the half-year were 901,700,000 board feet.

STEADY RISE

This compares with 790,000,000 in the same period last year and 696,600,000 in the 1958 period.

Boost was entirely due to export markets, which took 128,900,000 board feet more than last year, for a total of 436,900,000 board feet.

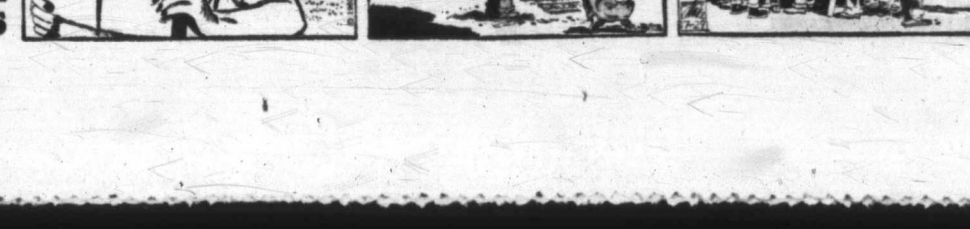

NOT FOR HOME

Domestic shipments have been flagging since the start of the year as a result of Canadian and American construction curtailments. In the half-year, they were down 17,200,000 board feet at 464,700,000.

The domestic market hit its low spot in June when shipments amounted to only 55,700,000, a drop of 24,100,000 from the previous month and down 7,000,000 from the corresponding month last year.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The outdoor hydrangeas have been making a particularly good show this year, due, no doubt, to last winter's mild weather. I don't believe we ever realize how much bloom we lose in these shrubs from the frosting of the potential flower buds in winter, and I know of some frost pockets around town where hydrangeas never bloom at all unless given winter protection of some kind.

This is a good time to give hydrangeas a touch of tonic in the form of sulphate of ammonia in water, two tablespoons per gallon and a couple of quarts per bush. This gives developing blossom trusses an extra boost; moreover, sulphate of ammonia breaks down in the soil to leave an acid residue, which is very much to the liking of this plant. The flowers are a clearer blue, and the leaves a much better green.

A limey soil may not only muddy the coloring of the blooms or even turn them pink, but is a common cause of pale, anemic foliage in hydrangeas. This is due to lack of iron in the plant's diet—not that there is any shortage of iron in the soil, but because the lime locks it up in a form insoluble in water, and therefore unavailable to the plant roots.

Fortunately, there is a form of iron tonic for plants which cannot be locked up by the lime. This is known as chelated iron, and is sold under such trade names as Tru-Green, Sequestrene, and Versenol. Mix with water according to the directions on the package and apply in a watering can, pouring it VERY slowly over the roots, but reserving a little to spray over the foliage as well.

Last year I tried a touch of Tru-Green Iron on a newly-planted specimen of Camellia (Tecoma) grandiflora which was looking very pale and sickly and was making hardly any new growth at all. Within a month, the leaves were a rich, deep green and strong young growths had pushed up to a height of five feet before leaf-fall.

While we're on the subject of iron deficiency and its treatment with chelated iron, I should mention that other chelated mineral compounds are now available to the home gardener, notably manganese and zinc complexes, which are used for curing zinc and manganese deficiencies respectively. There is also a sort of buckshot treatment containing all three of these minerals, sold under the name of Tru-Green Plus.

If you examine your lilies carefully, you may find that some of them are pushing out a second set of roots just a fraction of an inch above soil level. Others are making new stem roots just under the surface, dangerously close to the top and very vulnerable to drought. For this reason, all lilies should be given a generous top dressing.

Leafmould, peat, rotted manure, Fertil-Mulch or Blue Whale are all good for this purpose. Those lilies which produce their secondary stem roots just below soil surface will need only a surface mulch of rotted leaves, peat or loam, but those which push out the new roots above ground should have something a bit more nourishing—decayed manure with some rough leaves or peat mixed in is ideal. Mound this up around the stems.

In applying this top dressing to lilies, be careful not to pack it down hard, thereby preventing air from reaching the new roots. I think there is some advantage in mounding the lilies on the instalment plan, starting with about an inch and adding a little more each week until no more stem roots appear.

By Edward P. Morgan

One Long, Delicious Blah

While John Crosby is on vacation his column is being conducted by guest writers. Edward P. Morgan, Washington commentator, American Broadcasting Company, is today's writer.

Stage, screen, and broadcast celebrities have made such a thing—a pretty thing at that—out of endorsing products and yodelling commercials that I often wonder where the pitch ends and the act begins. Perhaps the whole thing is just one long delicious filler blend and you don't have to bother to choose between the ad and the act.

At any rate, advertising has contributed so richly to American culture that the time is fast approaching when Madison Avenue can claim it all as its very own. That will be the day and life will become one long, sponsored dream.

It will begin, of course, at breakfast with the morning paper. You will be reading along on Walter Lippmann or whoever is your favorite pundit and after making a profound point about the national purpose he will say, "And now we will pause for product identification. Please be good enough to cast your eyes two columns to the right and absorb that purposeful message about laxative, gentle action on the digestive tract. Feel sluggish? Go out and buy a bottle. Then come back and I'll be ready to discuss our rate of growth. Thank you."

Why not? Is that of more questionable taste, at mealtime, than a TV plug of a mother showing her daughter how to get rid of hair on her legs and under her arms? Or a pulsating map of a human stomach being soothed by some headache powder?

Is it any more out of character for one of the world's most distinguished journalists to become a barker for bodily regularity than for a matinee idol or a famous diva to become a huckster for Old Overcoat, the Gargantua V-8, or Livid Lipstick? The way these insidious, idiotic singing commercials are taking over, I fully expect that the next time I go to hear Mozart at the Met, my favorite "Don Giovanni" aria will trail off into a macabre musical pitch for embalming fluid.

In one of the slick magazines not long ago I came upon a full-page color ad of a man sitting in front of a painting by one of the old masters, borrowed for the occasion from the famous Prado Museum in Madrid. I forget the message but the layout suggests infinite possibilities for the impoverished, undiscovered artist, and, for that matter, fatter capital gains for the Painter Who Has Arrived.

Their canvases henceforth can come equipped with ample space in the lower left-hand corner (the area may be varied to fit taste and product) for a vivid message extolling the sparkling virtues of Rusty's Mineral Water. Imagine the setting, the status that a Monet landscape would provide for such a staple! Calendar art has long been a fixture in the American kitchen. Now it can move with dignity and with added dollar-significance into the living room.

There are still other chinks to fill in the fully-sponsored American dream. The publishing business could well look alert. Perhaps one of the reasons so few Americans read so few books is because they miss the lovely pictures of the magazine ads which could break up that long monotony of type. Luscious color plates of Goody's Cake Mix or that ravishing red-haired model applying Kill-Smell Deodorant would be just the thing to liven up the next Book-of-the-Month.

And think what a relief to the citizen to have the courts commercialized. As the judge rapped his gavel for a recess in a murder trial, the bailiff, his voice properly full and pear-shaped, would sing out: "These proceedings are brought to you by courtesy of the Safecrackers Protective Association." The administration of justice is a losing proposition anyway, and this would ease the taxpayer's subsidy.

Hollywood Today

By Sheilah Graham

Liz Taylor Nearly Broke

LONDON (NANA) — You learn more about Hollywood movie stars away from Hollywood. For instance, in London, I discovered that Elizabeth Taylor, with all the money she is making, may not have too much in the bank. In Mike Todd's last will, she received an outright payment of $800,000. So did Mike Todd Junior. Both of them put every dime into "Scent of Mystery," the smellorama movie the junior and senior Todds believed in. To date, nothing has come back—the picture was not a hit.

The British seemed somewhat bewildered by Tammy Grimes' singing of "Melancholy Baby" at the London Palladium night of stars. In my opinion Tammy is not ready for this kind of big time plateau. Her chief interest lies in the fact that she will probably be signing her name "Mrs. Rex Harrison." But while she looks a bit like the late Kay Kendall, she has a long way to go before she acquires the kind of talent possessed by Kay. Or maybe I just heard her sing the wrong song.

Strange that Jack Clayton has not directed a film since his smash hit, "Room at the Top." But he will be in Hollywood in January to steer Deborah Kerr through her paces in "Turn of the Screw."

The biggest star in London is a girl who isn't working—Jessie Matthews. I sat with Victor Saville who directed Jessie in her early film hits, while Jessie brought the house down at the Palladium singing, "My Heart Stood Still."

The star show this year was not as good as last. I'd rather see Sir Laurence Olivier doing a scene from Shakespeare, than wearing falsies and a girle in the over-long sketch with Kenneth More. I've never found it funny to see a man dressed as a woman—with the sole exception of Jack Lemmon in "Some Like It Hot."

The Jimmy Stewarts flew into Madrid as I flew out. They have the twins with them, also Gloria's two sons by her previous marriage. Alan Brown who used to be with Life magazine in Hollywood when it first started, tossed the Stewarts a cocktail party. Alan is now with the Sam Bronston company. I have a hunch that Peter Finch will be offered the lead in "The Glory of El Cid." Laurence Harvey's schedule makes his acceptance impossible.

'Manipogo' Target Of Search

WINNIPEG, (UPI)—A two man expedition will set out this weekend to search for some trace of "Manipogo"—the reluctant sea monster of Lake Winnipegosis.

Dr. J. A. McLeod, a professor of zoology at the University of Manitoba, who will lead the team described the outing as "an exploratory trip." He was frankly skeptical of recent reports of sighting of a ten-foot, hump-backed creature on the lake.

"I don't think it will turn out to be a prehistoric monster," he said. "I think it was an optical illusion. They are very common over water, especially calm water." He suggested that the eye witnesses might have seen a turtle dragging weeds.

Dr. McLeod did not rule out entirely the possibility that it might be an unknown species. He recalled that a coelacanth, a creature long believed to be extinct—was caught some years ago off Madagascar.

While exhibiting disbelief at the existence of a monster, Dr. McLeod said he couldn't "stand off 200 miles away and say these people are daffy."

Canadian Scouts Homeward-Bound

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Canada's 350-member contingent to the fifth national Boy Scout jamboree left for home in four groups after the jamboree closed last night.

Eighteen Scouts from British Columbia will travel by bus, leaving Friday, with the Portland, Ore., contingent. They will remain in Portland two days for sight-seeing as guests of the Portland area scout council.

Forty others from Alberta and Saskatchewan will return home by bus and will camp en route. They will leave Friday and take five days to get back.

The last group, four Scouts from Manitoba, will return home by regularly-scheduled train, leaving Colorado Springs Sunday.

Sherrin Off to Seafair 'Albert' in from Wings

"Young Albert" replaces the 1960 Miss Victoria at the "Smile Show" tomorrow and Saturday evenings.

Sherrin Molyard has been appearing nightly to introduce and to participate in the show since its opening last Saturday. Now she is off to Seattle for the Seafair parade.

Her place at the Langham Court Theatre will be taken by well-known Victoria actor

Bert Williams who will provide some of the famous "Young Albert" monologues, originally brought to great prominence by Stanley Holloway.

Otherwise the "Smile Show" remains the same with comedians, Jerry Gosley and Len Evans; leading lady, Margaret Thomson; dancers, Pat, Joan and Lana; organist, Reg Stone, and guest artist, Lorna Langley. It starts each night at 8.15.

Youth Warns of Washout

Car Saves Train

VERNER, Ont. (CP)—A 17-year-old youth drove at speeds up to 100 miles an hour Wednesday to overtake a CPR freight train and warn the crew of a washout on the CPR tracks near this village 30 miles west of North Bay.

Larry Kennedy was on duty here at his father's service station when a man drove in and reported the washout which resulted from torrential rains during the night.

Larry telephoned the CPR station here but got no answer. He tried the North Bay station and was told to "grab whatever is available and get down to the tracks."

As he set out in the car with his father, who had just arrived for work, they heard the train passing through the village. When they realized they could not reach the village's railway crossing in time, Mr. Kennedy leaped out of the car and returned to the service station.

Larry meanwhile sped along the highway, travelling at speeds of 90 to 100 miles an hour, and overtook the train after a two-mile chase.

With a pair of red shorts he found in the car, the youth ran across a field and waved frantically. The train gradually came to a stop, less than a mile from the washout.

Show Business

By Dick Williams

Young Jeff Hunter and Robert Ryan are portraying the roles of Jesus Christ and John the Baptist in "The King of Kings," a new multi-million-dollar production now shooting in Madrid.

Recently the two were taking a lunch-hour drive in Hunter's Mercedes when they had a flat tire on one of Madrid's busiest streets. Both were in their flowing robes and long hair for the picture. In addition, Ryan sported a luxuriant full beard.

Ryan insisted on fixing the flat alone. "You have the role of Christ so you should keep your robe white."

So Ryan changed the tire while Hunter sat looking on from the curb.

Spanish passers-by shook their heads, murmuring, "Those crazy Americans! What won't they dream up to get attention?"

Car Industry Probe Set

By John D

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced Thursday he plans next week to pick the men and write the terms of reference for a royal commission investigation of Canada's ailing car industry.

Indications are the royal commission will be headed by a senior judge or a university professor with both management and union interests also represented.

Mr. Diefenbaker got his idea for the commission inquiry from a 200-worker delegation of the United Auto Workers earlier this month.

The union said the car and car parts industry in Canada is in serious trouble—largely because of foreign small-car imports.

The commission will face a big chore in trying to get to the bottom of the industry's troubles, which are tied closely to the United States industry.

Angry Aldermen on Wrong End of Secrecy Move

Aldermen yesterday angrily found themselves on the wrong end of secrecy.

"There's something very funny about this," Ald. Austin Curtis said, when council received from the retail merchants' group of the Chamber of Commerce a letter endorsing a draft sign bylaw.

"I don't think any member of council has seen it (the draft) yet. Why has it been kept a secret from council?"

"I think the building department is going out trying to sell this bylaw behind our backs, and I don't like it!"

"I haven't seen it. I think Ald. Curtis is perfectly right," said Ald. Arthur Dowell, and several others agreed.

Council asked for copies of the draft and a progress report from the public works committee.

Actually, the draft endorsed by the retail merchants and sought now by council is believed to have been rejected in closed-door sessions of a special committee, and another is believed to be in course of preparation.

A first submission was rejected by public works committee after sign companies strongly opposed it. Public works committee then instructed assistant city engieer Roderick Clack to prepare a new draft in consultation with the special committee of Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean — absent yesterday — and sign company representatives.

A second submission by Mr. Clack—the one the retail merchants apparently heard about — was debated by the special committee some weeks ago, but was not then forwarded to public works committee, leading to the belief that it was not acceptable to the sign companies.

Lincoln's Story Tugs Emotions

CHICAGO—Richard M. Nixon in his presidential nomination acceptance speech, recalled that someone asked Abraham Lincoln if he thought God was on his side.

He gave Lincoln's answer: "My concern is not whether God is on our side but whether we are on God's side."

The applause came like the bursting of a dam—the emotional summit of the convention.

Lummumba Fears Massacres

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba said Thursday "the situation in the Congo might bring us into another world war."

"There may be massive massacres" unless Belgian troops leave quickly he said.

He seeks Canadian help in Montreal and Ottawa today.

DAG HAMMARSKJÖLD

Congolese Crowds Wildly Welcome Hammarskjöld

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — Dag Hammarskjöld sailed across the Congo River in a white launch to Leopoldville Thursday and received a tremendous welcome from hundreds of cheering Congolese.

Diplomatic quarters said the United Nations secretary-general brought with him an ambitious partnership plan calling for United Nations troops to remain in the new republic for at least five years.

FROM BELGIUM
Hammarskjöld, who flew from Belgium, immediately began a study of the Congo's economic and social dilemma.

He met President Joseph Kasavubu, Maj.-Gen. Carl von Horn, commander of UN troops in the Congo, and UN assistant secretary-general Ralph Bunche.

DISTURBING EVENT
Even as he arrived, disturbing developments took place in Katanga Province, which has seceded from the 29-day-old republic.

Katanga Premier Moïse Tshombe warned Opposition Leader Prosper Mwamba that his walkout from the provincial parliament Wednesday could lead to "severe criminal punishment" for subversion.

WALKED OUT
Mwamba and his followers walked out, Tshombe said, to provoke trouble and provide an excuse for UN intervention in Katanga.

Tshombe is sending a three-man delegation to place before the UN and Belgium the area's case for independence.

He wants no UN troops. One of Hammarskjöld's most pressing problems is the threatened breakdown of the Congo economy. Virtually all taxation has ceased.

INFANT NATION
Congolese are turning to Hammarskjöld to solve the infant nation's troubles.

Highly-placed diplomatic sources said UN officials have abandoned an earlier plan to recommend a UN trusteeship for the Congo because of objections from Congolese leaders.

NEW PLANS
Hammarskjöld's new plan calls for small-scale domestic production, leading to an African trade pattern in place of a Congo tied to Western Europe. It also calls for civil service supervised by the UN

Cold War Projects All in His Hands

CHICAGO (UPI) — Republican nominee Richard Nixon launched his campaign for the presidency last night by proposing creation of a powerful new striking force to battle communism on the economic front.

Accepting the presidential nomination in a victory-for-freedom speech, Nixon called for consolidation of all non-military cold war projects into one big program that would be under his direct supervision if he wins the White House.

Nixon told the wildly cheering 27th Republican national convention that the new striking force would encompass such programs as foreign aid, information activities, and the exchange of people with Communist nations. It would be separate from military programs.

Nixon delivered a blunt declaration to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that "his grandchildren will live under freedom."

Nixon summoned all Americans to join him in meeting the challenge of international communism with a worldwide campaign of "positive strategy" that seeks to build a sound world and refuses to bow to Red threats.

"When Mr. Khrushchev says our grandchildren will live under communism, let us say his grandchildren will live under freedom," he declared as the huge, gaily-decorated convention hall erupted in thunderous cheers.

'Symphony of Cynicism'

Nixon also delivered a slashing attack on the Democrats, accusing presidential nominee John Kennedy and his backers of displaying at the Democratic national convention a "symphony of political cynicism" that is out of step with the times.

Nixon accepted the nomination after the convention roared its approval of his choice of vice-presidential running mate—handsome diplomat Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. Lodge also received a thunderous ovation.

The 1,331 delegates and the packed galleries also erupted with cheers when convention chairman Charles Halleck read a telegram from President Eisenhower extending his heartiest congratulations to "Dick and Cabot"—the new titular heads of the Republican party.

Eisenhower said he was confident the candidates would defeat Democrats Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson in the November election because of their "wisdom" and government experience. But he warned they face a tough fight.

Nixon had already told the convention he would campaign in every state. Lodge said he was ready to carry the banner "anywhere, anytime."

Nixon emphasized in his speech that the major task confronting the next president would be to meet the Communist challenge in the economic field, where Russia and its satellites pose as champions of peace.

It is in this field, he said, that the United States must make an all-out effort.

'Your Combined Wisdom'

In this connection, Eisenhower told Nixon and Lodge that "our combined wisdom and knowledge of the affairs of government, both at home and abroad, will be a telling factor in the campaign that lies ahead."

"That campaign will not be easy—indeed, it will be a struggle right down to election day," the president said. "But I am confident that you will attract to the cause of maintaining good government a large majority of the independent voters and even a great many discerning Democrats."

Lodge accepted the nomination with a warning that the 1960 election will be held in the face of a "death struggle" with communism requiring the most able, experienced man in the White House.

The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations since 1953 outlined this foreign policy:

● To continue and strengthen the military power which guarantees that no nation will ever dare attack.

● To improve the "kind of community we have in America" so the world will know it practices what it preaches on education, care for the aged, health and opportunities for youth.

● Progress in human rights, so a world fourth-fifths non-white will recognize the existence of justice in America.

World Is Dangerous

"The world is dangerous because small groups of men have acquired control of enormous resources and seek to put them wholeheartedly at the service of Communism—a conspiratorial cult which teaches them that they must take over the world."

"When it becomes obvious to them—as I believe it has—that attempts to do so by military force will bring about their own devastation, they resort to threats, hate propaganda and midnight treachery."

He hailed Nixon as uniquely experienced in government, with particular emphasis on foreign affairs. The vice president, he said, is "tough-minded" and "does not get rattled."

National Convention

Socred Chiefs Split In Stormy Session

OTTAWA — Social Credit's national convention here sailed through a stormy opening day Thursday with squabbles over procedure, an apparent split between the movement's leaders and some delegates, and contentious debates.

Reporters were barred from the convention in the morning session when delegates from eight provinces reversed a decision of leaders that the press be allowed to attend. This ruling was later rescinded.

A draft policy statement underwent radical changes in wording at the hands of the convention's policy committee.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett publicly disagreed with B.C. League president Noel Murphy over reasons for the defeat of the 19 Socred members in the 1958 federal election. Mr.

TECUMSEH, Ont. (CP)—Three teenage children were taken to hospital in nearby Windsor Thursday night after being removed from their home by police and Children's Aid Society officials.

Provincial police constable Gus Newby said the children's mother told him they had been confined since 1949.

Dr. C. J. Hammond of Windsor said the children—two girls and a boy—were "certainly in bad shape."

MALNUTRITION
Officials at Windsor's Grace Hospital said all three were suffering from malnutrition.

Provincial police sergeant Jack Hatch of Essex said neighbors had not seen the children for at least seven years. He added that they had not been attended by a doctor for at least five years and had not attended school.

Const. Newby said the mother told him she has six children dating back to 1949 when she was divorced by her first husband.

MOVED TO WINDSOR
She moved to Windsor from Detroit in 1949 because it was difficult to find housing for a large family and told the landlord she had only three children.

When she moved here a year later she said the same thing and continued to confine them.

The constable said he was told the three confined children—the girls, aged 18 and 13, and the boy, 14—were all retarded in growth and unable to talk or walk properly. He said police found no locks and the children had the run of the house, a playroom with toys and proper clothes.

SMALL FOR AGE
Police were notified after the boy went to the home of Forest Richards, three "houses away while his mother was out."

"He said he was 14 but he seemed very small for that age," said Mr. Richards.

The Richards family called police when they didn't recognize the boy and he told them he lived in a house where they thought only two other children were staying.

Witness Told He's Fibbing At Duncan

DUNCAN — A witness testifying at a trial here yesterday was accused of "fibbing" by defence lawyer Lance Heard. The lawyer received support from Magistrate A. C. Sutton who told Albert Grice, 3031 Yew, Victoria: "You better watch what you are saying."

Grice said at the trial of George Highmoor, Cowichan Bay, that he had seen the top of Highmoor's car over bushes on a side road seconds before it was in collision on the highway south of here.

Mr. Highmoor had been charged with careless driving April 2 after the accident when his car was struck by one being driven by Miss Marion Levine, 21, of Cedar. She said Highmoor failed to stop at a stop sign, which he denied.

Grice, who was directly behind Miss Levine's car, was warned by Mr. Heard: "Watch what you say. You told the adjuster that Mr. Highmoor's car was coming down the highway. Now you say you saw it on the side road. I think you're fibbing."

"You're telling two different stories," said Magistrate Sutton. He told Grice: "I think that if the truth were known you only know that an accident happened."

Both sides will make their summations before the magistrate this morning. The case was remanded yesterday so the magistrate could consider the testimony.

Obedience Trials Held at Fulford

FULFORD — Thirty-two dogs of all sizes and breeds were entered Sunday in the first dog trials to be held on Salt Spring Island. Twenty-one dogs came from dog obedience training classes at Nanaimo, Victoria, North Saanich, Duncan-Cowichan, Parksville and Mt. Brenton-Chemalinas, with 11 dogs from Salt Spring Island Dog Obedience Club.

Dr. E. Johnson of Cobble Hill was the judge, and W. Evans, Mrs. A. Best of Crofton, trainer, Harold Hoffman, Ganges, secretary, and other members of the different dog obedience clubs helped with ceremonies.

OVERTIME
The trials started in the Fulford Hall at 1 p.m. They were supposed to finish at 5 p.m., but it was 7 before all the classes were put through their paces.

A good crowd turned out to watch and the members of the local Women's Institute were kept busy serving tea, coffee and soft drinks.

There was little commotion in the hall during the entire trials, which spoke well for the training of the dogs.

Some of the larger dogs had a word or two to say once in a while.

Mrs. J. H. Harkema of Ganges had her French poodle, Casey, entered and he won several honors for the Salt Spring club.

Casey won the silver cup for the best club dog, donated by Mt. Brenton club, and the novice A cup.

Twelve-year-old Monty Gast of Chemalinas had second highest score with his beautiful Fleck, a German short-haired pointer which scored 195 points out of a possible 200.

The novice B cup went to Bonnie, a little Pomeranian owned by Mrs. C. J. Mackenzie of Cowichan, with 192½ points. The open A cup was won by Anne Machermer's Max, from Cowichan.

TOP PERFORMANCE
Putting on an outstanding performance in obedience, deportment, figure 8, sits, high jumps and broad jumps and obeying hand signals was the superb German pointer Mitzie, owned by L. Coburn of Cowichan. This dog won the highest honor at the show—best utility dog.

Salt Spring Island dog obedience classes will start again in September.

Victorian Sentenced At Shawnigan Lake

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—William Edward Elshaw, 1985 Rockland, Victoria, was sentenced to four months in jail here yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and theft.

A 17-year-old Victoria juvenile who was with him pleaded guilty to the same charge and was remanded to Aug. 3 for a probation report and sentencing.

Elshaw was arrested after being seen in a stolen car with about $40 of goods taken July 16 from Cliffside Store at the foot of the lake. It was the second burglary of the store in three days.

Port Alberni Resident Shows Dirty Tap Water

PORT ALBERNI — A pint jar of very dirty water was exhibited to city council when a resident of north Port Alberni complained that water from taps in her home was not fit for human consumption.

Mrs. James Martin, 624 Sixth Avenue North, was told that there was not the first complaint from the area where dirt in the city's water system settles.

CLEAR LINE
City Superintendent Len Crowshaw was directed to have a hydrant blown off to clear out the line.

Mrs. Martin said that pressure was low in the district where she lives and Mayor Loran Jordan explained that while the city's water supply is ample, with water running over the dam at present, facilities for bringing it into town are not yet adequate. He told of the long range plan for improving the main system.

CONTROL DOGS
She asked council for information on action to take to control dogs in the neighborhood. A telephone call to the dog-catcher had failed to get results, she said.

Mayor Jordan explained that negotiations toward joint operation with Alberni of a dog pound had been held up.

Victoria May Grow Up Under New Zoning

A new type of zone in which apartment blocks up to 12 storeys high will be permitted is provided for in a bylaw given preliminary approval yesterday by city council.

The proposed bylaw also provides for the first of such zones, at Douglas and Simcoe across from Beacon Hill Park, where a company is seeking to build an eight-storey block.

Present absolute limit on height is 75 feet, and in most situations it is three storeys. The advisory planning commission, recommending approval of this bylaw, indicated it will propose similar rezoning where appropriate after further study.

APC representative Col. J. R. Kingham told council the commission now believes there are "desirable locations along the waterfront for these skyscraper luxury apartments, as long as they don't increase the density (of population per acre)."

To this end, the proposed bylaw requires that total floor area of an apartment block in one of the new "high density multiple dwelling zones" may not exceed a proportion of the site area ranging from 40 per cent, for a two-storey building, to 200 per cent for a 10, 11 or 12-storey building.

$300,000 Tax 'Beef' Revived by Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrell yesterday revived a long-standing complaint against the provincial government's refusal to make grants in lieu of taxes on its property in the city.

The federal government, he said, pays the equivalent of taxes on most of its property in Victoria, but the city loses between $250,000 and $300,000 a year in revenue because the provincial government won't.

Hospital Polio Ward Admits City 'Suspect'

A 27-year-old Victoria man yesterday became the 12th person to enter Royal Jubilee Hospital's polio ward—but hospital officials emphasized he was only a suspect, in for observation.

They added that the patient, Clifford Kadatz, had had three polio shots and had previously been a victim of the disease itself.

All other patients in the ward were said to be still in "satisfactory" condition.

Some Canadians 'Poor Example' For Newcomers

DUNCAN—Eleven persons who became citizens yesterday were warned not to be swayed by the poor example of some Canadians by birth.

County Court Judge L. A. Hanna said "the poor example set by some of the people" must not be allowed to be the cause for breaking their oath of "love and loyalty" to Canada and the Queen.

"The judge said they can respect their 'mother' countries but they must be loyal only to Canada."

Naturalized were: So Kuen Jing, 821 Jubilee, Duncan; Paul Werem and P. Legit, Werem, Youbou; Gerald Da Haas, Victoria; Mario Lisa, Youbou; Cornelia Guldmond and Cornelis Guldmond, Westholme; Herman Kohler, Duncan; Gerardus Kozijn and Margaret Kozijn, 910 Marchmont, Duncan; Torrey Christian Pedersen, Mesachie Lake.

The Independent Order of the Daughters of the Empire presented certificates. British and Foreign Bible Society gave Bibles. The United Church got together circle held a tea.

ALBERNI—Sale of property off Beaver Creek Road for installation of bulk oil storage facilities by Alberni District Co-operative Association has been authorized by council.

An offer of $650 for a lot was accepted. Intention of the association is to install four 5,000-gallon tanks.

60 MPH 'Crazy'

DUNCAN—Magistrate A. C. Sutton yesterday told a motorist that driving at 60 m.p.h. in the city is "crazy."

He suspended the licence of James Bergstrom, 19, of Duncan, for 30 days and fined him $30. Bergstrom pleaded guilty.

"Too many people are getting killed by people like you behind the wheel of a car," said the magistrate. Bergstrom got his licence in April and was convicted of careless driving July 16.

ALBERNI—Indications that development of pozzolana deposits east of Alberni may get underway soon were contained in an application to council for purchase of land for a right-of-way to the area.

The application from McCulloch & Ohs on behalf of Holdfast Natural Resources Ltd., was received at Monday's council meeting and referred to committee for study.

CHEMAMUS—United efforts of the North Cowichan south end fire department and the B.C. Forest Products, Crofton, were successful in dousing a bad blaze on Osborne Bay road, Monday.

COWICHAN LAKE—Employment at Cowichan Copper Ltd. is back to normal after being cut in half a month ago.

Officials said yesterday 85 persons are working after the work staff was cut to 45 because of a shortage of copper caused when logging firms forbade their use of logging roads to bring ore out from Nadira Mine.

Logging companies have allowed the use of the roads into the new diggings in the Niti Valley for the last several fast Natural Resources Ltd., weeks.

No Driver's Licence

DUNCAN—The staid seriousness of police court was relieved briefly yesterday by W. J. Blanshard, Koksilah, who pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without a driver's licence.

"Do you have anything to say?" asked Magistrate A. C. Sutton.

"All I can say is that I better get on one," commented Blanshard seriously. He was fined $20 for the offence.

CHEMAMUS—Special polio clinics were held in the Chemamus Legion hall, when a total of 696 persons received shots.

Miss Joan Coursier, Mid-Island public health nurse was in charge.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret, and a son, Michael, both at home; three brothers, Arthur in Victoria, Ernest in Shawinigan Lake, Norman in England; two sisters, Mrs. Gracie Parker in Ireland and Miss Elsie Brondson in England.

The band, directed by Clifton Bryson, will give a concert in Beacon Hill Park Tuesday.

Wednesday night they will play at the lacrosse game in Memorial Arena. They conclude their stay with an hour concert at the Butchart Gardens Thursday.

May Be Hardship to Industry

Tougher Anti-Cinder Law Will Be Urged on Council

Complaints 'Legitimate' Present Law Too Weak

By R. O. MARRION

An anti-cinder bylaw strict enough "likely to cause some hardship" to industry is in prospect in Victoria.

The smoke abatement advisory committee, chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow told city council yesterday, will recommend such a bylaw.

"Does council want to cure this matter or shut its eyes to it?" he asked.

"We can't do that," said Mayor Percy Scurrell, and the committee was asked for a report and recommendations.

The committee, Ald. Edgelow said, had found complaints about smoke and fly-ash to be "legitimate," and the present anti-smoke bylaw "not good enough."

His remarks to council followed by a couple of hours a lively public meeting in council chamber which produced one new suggested remedy, but led to an old conclusion:

Difficult Problem

"It's a very difficult problem," Ald. Edgelow summed up after hearing arguments from offenders and victims. "We do want industry here, and still the people in the area affected shouldn't be made to suffer as much as they are."

The new suggestion came from Sam Swetnam of Economy Steam Laundry, once but no longer ranked among the chief offenders.

Perhaps, he said, the city and industries could co-operate to establish a plant to burn wood waste efficiently and generate electricity, which could be used for street-lighting and perhaps by the industries.

From others at the meeting came these comments:

Smoke Inspector Thomas Walker: The wood waste that has to be disposed of daily in Victoria amounts to 50 or 60 tons, about half the weight composed of water which makes a visible pall, but not serious or harmful. "There is no other way of disposing of this waste within a reasonable cost except by burning."

Out the Chimney

Brad Howland, a Stewart and Hudson employee speaking as an individual: The B.C. Forest Products sawmill produces fly-ash that is "the problem of every working man, householder and business man in the area. Inefficient effort to burn wood waste is tantamount to taking your own waste and shooting it out the chimney onto someone else's property."

Herbert Barnes, BCFP sawmill manager: BCFP saw 950 employees and a payroll of $4,000,000, has had a continuous program of betterment of smoke and cinder emission, and has spent $600,000 on developments which have been directly or indirectly beneficial. The company has been unable to find a satisfactory solution to the problem. And stricter legislation "might well force ourselves and other industries into costs we cannot afford."

Henry J. Smith, 1004 Catherine: By failing to tighten up regulations, the city has been "pampering industry and neglecting its citizens." The industries have the money to improve the situation. "And if they go out, we'll have a better class ip. Let's have clean should think carefully about doing anything that might put good citizens out of work.

Obviously Toothless

Lloyd MacKenzie, solicitor representing tourist establishments on Douglas in the cinder zone: The companies causing the nuisance have an obligation to find the solution. Victoria's bylaw, "obviously toothless and in appropriate from the beginning," should be made more effective, like Vancouver's.

Ernest Hudson, of Stewart and Hudson: Cinders in the industrial area are probably keeping new industry from locating there.

Mr. Barnes: Perhaps one reason new industry isn't coming is that "industry is getting a pretty bad time from everybody."

Jack MacKenzie, International Woodworkers' business agent: A $8,000,000 payroll is involved, and council night.

Tools Rushed To Fire Area

A B.C. forestry official said hand tools and power pumps are being rushed from the quiet Prince Rupert district to the hard-pressed Nelson forest district.

A Pacific Western Airlines DC-3 has been chartered for the purpose.

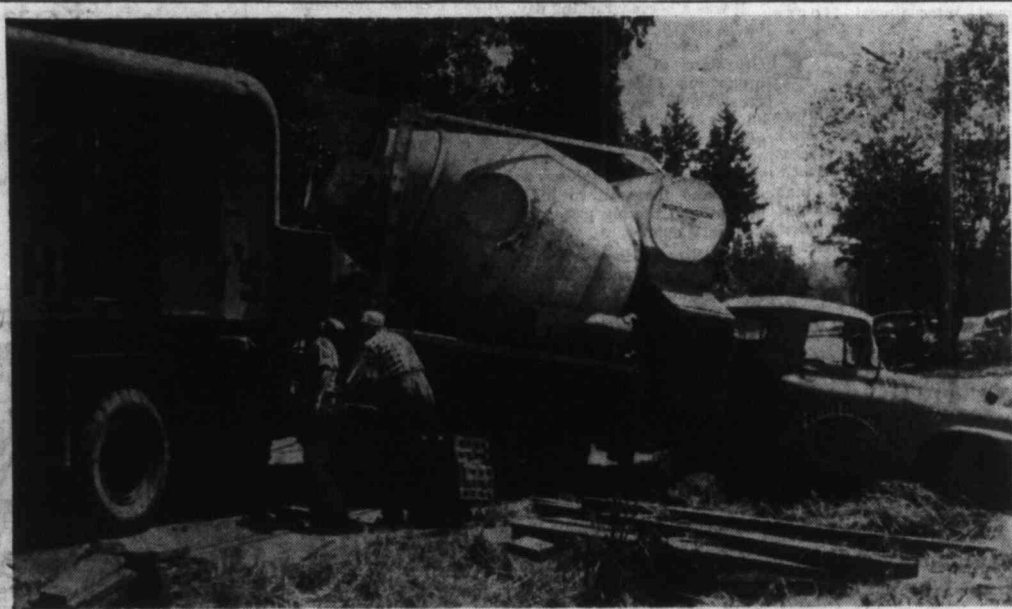

It was to arrive in Kimberley at 11 p.m. and the tools will be taken to the Cranbrook area, which was hard hit by lightning storms Wednesday night.

Cement Sidewalk Hardens—Inside the Truck

The new sidewalk this truck was carrying has hardened up well enough for people to walk on already. Only trouble, it's still in the cement cylinder and will have to be chipped out. The truck, which was unloading quick-setting redi-mix, slipped off the soft shoulder of the road at Cordova Bay. Rescue attempts were in vain until a crane hauled the truck back on the road, but after five hours the cement was solid.—(Ryan Bros. photo.)

Council Raids Land Sale Fund For Road Money

Over opposition from two aldermen, city council yesterday decided to take money from its reverted lands sales fund to spend on road improvements, and thereby obtain a matching provincial grant.

But several members objected to the provincial government attaching to its grant the "string" of requiring equal expenditure, on specific projects, by the city.

The city engineer reported that the budget approved by council earlier in the year contained $33,000 for work which would qualify, and recommended taking $35,000 from the land-sales fund.

CHIEF GUARDIAN

"Eeeesh!", said Ald. Arthur Dowell, recognized as the chief guardian of the fund, which could one day help build a new city hall or auditorium.

He and Ald. Elmer McEwen voted against the proposal. Mayor Percy Scurrell, although he voted for it, said he hated to see the land account "raided such as we have been doing."

CURBS, BAYS

Proposed that any widening of the Patricia Bay Highway at Elk Lake should be on the opposite side of the road from the lake, so that recreational land wouldn't be lost.

"I think we should take action at once," said Ald. M. H. Mooney. "I don't think it's going to be long before we see a four-lane highway there."

Instructed the city solicitor to see that the Victoria Rowing Club's lease on Elk Lake property is cancelled, as ordered earlier in the year because the club failed to meet conditions of the lease. Ald. Mooney told council he understood another organization had been formed, had put in a ramp for motorboats, and had "roped it off and are calling it private property."

About 50 Victoria residents are still employed by the plant.

The company is now negotiating a new water purchase agreement with the city to tide it over until the end of the year.

Sidney Roofing had a long-term contract which expires at the end of this month.

City council yesterday authorized the mayor to negotiate with the company on water rates and report back, with the stipulation that the city shouldn't lose money.

Angry Aldermen on Wrong End of Secrecy Move

Aldermen yesterday angrily found themselves on the wrong end of secrecy. "There's something very funny about this," Ald. Austin Curtis said, when council received from the retail merchants' group of the Chamber of Commerce a letter endorsing a draft sign bylaw. "I don't think any member of council has seen it (the draft) yet. Why has it been kept a secret from council?" "I think the building department is going out trying to sell this bylaw behind our backs, and I don't like it!" "I haven't seen it. I think Ald. Curtis is perfectly right," said Ald. Arthur Dowell, and several others agreed. Council asked for copies of the draft and a progress report from the public works committee. Actually, the draft endorsed by the retail merchants and sought now by council is believed to have been rejected in closed-door sessions of a special committee, and another is believed to be in course of preparation. A first submission was rejected by public works committee after sign companies strongly opposed it. Public works committee then instructed assistant city engieer Roderick Clack to prepare a new draft in consultation with the special committee of Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean — absent yesterday — and sign company representatives. A second submission by Mr. Clack—the one the retail merchants apparently heard about — was debated by the special committee some weeks ago, but was not then forwarded to public works committee, leading to the belief that it was not acceptable to the sign companies.

Socred Chiefs Split In Stormy Session

OTTAWA — Social Credit's national convention here sailed through a stormy opening day Thursday with squabbles over procedure, an apparent split between the movement's leaders and some delegates, and contentious debates.

Reporters were barred from the convention in the morning session when delegates from eight provinces reversed a decision of leaders that the press be allowed to attend. This ruling was later rescinded.

Orvis Kennedy of Edmonton, president of Alberta Social Credit League and chairman of the policy and constitution discussion, told reporters: "We want to let the crackpots blow off steam."

Efforts to put a new public face on Social Credit, sparked long and contentious debate

TECUMSEH, Ont. (CP)—Three teenage children were taken to hospital in nearby Windsor Thursday night after being removed from their home by police and Children's Aid Society.

Provincial police constable Gus Newby said the children's mother told him they had been confined since 1949.

Dr. C. J. Hammond of Windsor said the children—two girls and a boy—were "certainly in bad shape."

Officials at Windsor's Grace Hospital said all three were suffering from malnutrition.

Provincial police sergeant Jack Hatch of Essex said neighbors had not seen the children for at least seven years. He added that they had not been attended by a doctor for at least five years and had not attended school.

Const. Newby said the mother told him she has six children dating back to 1948 when she was divorced by her first husband.

Lumumba Fears Massacres

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba said Thursday "the situation in the Congo might bring us into another world war."

"There may be massive massacres" unless Belgian troops leave quickly, he said.

He seeks Canadian help in Montreal and Ottawa today.

DAG HAMMARSKJÖLD

Congolese Crowds Wildly Welcome Hammarskjöld

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — Dag Hammarskjöld sailed across the Congo River in a white launch to Leopoldville Thursday and received a tremendous welcome from hundreds of cheering Congolese.

Diplomatic quarters said the United Nations secretary-general brought with him an ambitious partnership plan calling for United Nations troops to remain in the new republic for at least five years.

FROM BELGIUM Hammarskjöld, who flew from Belgium, immediately began a study of the Congo's economic and social dilemma.

He met President Joseph Kasavubu, Maj. Gen. Carl Von Horn, commander of UN troops in the Congo, and UN assistant secretary-general Ralph Bunche.

DISTURBING EVENT Even as he arrived, disturbing developments took place in Katanga province, which has seceded from the 29-day-old republic.

Katanga Premier Moïse Tshombe warned Opposition Leader Prosper Mwamba that his walkout from the provincial parliament Wednesday could lead to "severe criminal punishment" for subversion.

PROVOKE TROUBLE Mwamba and his followers walked out, Tshombe said, to provoke trouble and provide an excuse for UN intervention in Katanga.

Tshombe is sending a three-man delegation to place before the UN and Belgium the area's case for independence.

He wants no UN troops. One of Hammarskjöld's most pressing problems is the threatened breakdown of the Congo economy. Virtually all taxation has ceased.

INFANT NATION Congolese are turning to Hammarskjöld to solve the infant nation's troubles.

Highly-placed diplomatic sources said UN officials have abandoned an earlier plan to recommend a UN trusteeship for the Congo because of objections from Congolese leaders.

NEW PLANS Hammarskjöld's new plan calls for small-scale domestic production leading to an African trade pattern in place of a Congo tied to Western Europe. It also calls for civil service supervised by the UN

Republicans Open Drive

CHICAGO (UPI) — Republican nominee Richard Nixon launched his campaign for the presidency last night by proposing creation of a powerful new striking force to battle Communism on the economic front.

Accepting the presidential nomination in a victory-for-freedom speech, Nixon called for consolidation of all non-military cold war projects into one big program that would be under his direct supervision if he wins the White House.

Nixon told the wildly cheering 27th Republican national convention that the new striking force would encompass such programs as foreign aid, information activities, and the exchange of people with Communist nations. It would be separate from military programs.

Nixon delivered a blunt declaration to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that "his grandchildren will live under freedom."

Nixon summoned all Americans to join him in meeting the challenge of international communism with a worldwide campaign of "positive strategy" that seeks to build a sound world and refuses to bow to Red threats.

"When Mr. Khrushchev says our grandchildren will live under Communism, let us say his grandchildren will live under freedom," he declared as the huge, gaily-decorated convention hall erupted in thunderous cheers.

'Symphony of Cynicism'

Nixon also delivered a slashing attack on the Democrats, accusing presidential nominee John Kennedy and his backers of displaying at the Democratic national convention a "symphony of political cynicism" that is out of step with the times.

Nixon accepted the nomination after the convention roared its approval of his choice of vice-presidential running mate—handsome diplomat Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. Lodge also received a thunderous ovation.

The 1,331 delegates and the packed galleries also erupted with cheers when convention chairman Charles Halleck read a telegram from President Eisenhower extending his heartfelt congratulations to "Dick and Cabot"—the new titular heads of the Republican party.

Eisenhower said he was confident the candidates would defeat Democrats Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson in the November election because of their "wisdom" and government experience. But he warned they face a tough fight.

Nixon had already told the convention he would campaign in every state. Lodge said he was ready to carry the banner "anywhere, anytime."

Nixon emphasized in his speech that the major task confronting the next president would be to meet the Communist challenge in the economic field, where Russia and its satellites pose as champions of peace.

It is in this field, he said, that the United States must make an all-out effort.

'Your Combined Wisdom'

In this connection, Eisenhower told Nixon and Lodge that "your combined wisdom and knowledge of the affairs of government, both at home and abroad, will be a telling factor in the campaign that lies ahead."

"That campaign will not be easy—indeed, it will be a struggle right down to election day," the president said. "But I am confident that you will attract to the cause of maintaining good government a large majority of the independent voters and even a great many discerning Democrats."

Lodge accepted the nomination with a warning that the 1960 election will be held in the face of a "death struggle" with Communism requiring the most able, experienced man in the White House.

The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations since 1953 outlined this foreign policy:

● To continue and strengthen the military power which guarantees that no nation will ever dare attack.

● To improve the "kind of community we have in America" so the world will know it practices what it preaches on education, care for the aged, health and opportunities for youth.

● Progress in human rights, so a world four-fifths non-white will recognize the existence of justice in America.

Lodge said that "of course, we are not going to lose our country," but he called for a program and a leader to prevent it.

He hailed Nixon as uniquely experienced in government, with particular emphasis on foreign affairs. The vice-president, he said, is "tough-minded" and "does not get rattled."

"Thus, we could in theory
